NOTE TO MESSRS. NAMBIAR, KIM AND MEYER

UN Website

I wish to advise that DPI has prepared a new structure and presentation of the homepage on un.org, bearing in mind the resolutions of the General Assembly on multilingualism and accessibility by disabled persons. The new look will be alike in each of the official languages and for the first time will include a branding element which will eventually be part of all pages across the website. The new home page reflects the outcome of usability tests by three diverse focus groups as well as comments and suggestions from across the Department.

I would like to invite you to a presentation of this new design at a time convenient to you on 9, 15 or 16 May 2008 to discuss comments and suggestions that you may have. Following your approval, we will circulate the new page to all offices of the Secretariat for their information and to ensure that all content-providing offices are fully involved in moving to the new presentation, as the new content management system for un.org is rolled out incrementally. At the same time, we will proceed with the programming of the site as well as rendering it into the other official languages.

I look forward to discussing this with you.
