OBJET:

May I recall the memorandum I sent you concerning the visit to Headquarters of T.T.H.H. the Maharajah and Maharanee of Sikkim.

I have been informed by H.E. Mr. Plimpton, Deputy Permanent Representative of the United States, that Their Highnesses will be visiting Headquarters on Thursday, 17 September to attend a luncheon he is giving in Their honour in a private room of the Delegates' Dining Room.

Would you wish to receive Them privately at any time in your office either before the luncheon or after? If so, might I suggest your offering Them a cocktail before luncheon with Mr. and Mrs. Plimpton.

This is a suggestion I am making entirely on my own without any request having come from Mr. Plimpton since I informed him that you would be unable to entertain the Maharajah and Maharanee at a luncheon as he had suggested at first. He perfectly understood it and made no further attempt along these lines.

Should you not be able to receive Them for cocktails before luncheon, may I suggest that on a tour of the building after luncheon They would call on you for 5 minutes in your office, if this plan fits in with your schedule.

TEXT OF STATEMENT BY SECRETARY-GENERAL
AT UNVEILING OF CHAGALL PANEL

Following is the text of the statement made by the Secretary-General, U Thant, at the unveiling ceremony on 17 September of the Chagall stained-glass memorial panel, contributed by the Secretariat staff in memory of the late Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld and his companions:

"This is a day of solemn remembrance. Exactly three years ago Dag Hammarskjöld set out on his final flight. On the morrow, the whole world mourned his tragic death, and that of his gallant companions.

"In a real sense, something of each one of us died with them, for the whole range of the Secretariat was represented on that flight -- the substantive officers, the personal assistants, the secretaries, the Field Service and the United Nations peace-keeping forces. Today, we remember their sacrifice, and we pay tribute to them and to all who have died in the service of the United Nations.

"Now a great artist, one of the acknowledged masters of modern art, Marc Chagall, has created a living memorial to their memory; a superb work which takes its place among the historic treasures of this building. In shapes and colours, in symbolic forms and designs, Marc Chagall has sought to express the simplicity and the beauty of the ideals of peace and brotherhood which we all endeavour to serve.

"I am deeply moved by his symbol of peace -- a young child being kissed on the cheek by an angelic face which emerges out of a joyous mass of flowers. And there are other symbols of peace we shall find as we study and search out the varied significance of the glorious design before us.

"In expressing man's yearning for peace and brotherhood, and his readiness to lay down his life in his search for these ideals, Marc Chagall has depicted that enduring spiritual reality which gives depth and meaning to human life and to all our efforts, both in the United Nations and outside it, to make this world a safer and better place for all.

"In accepting this magnificent work of art, I wish to thank Marc Chagall and all the members of the staff whose joint gift it is. I wish to congratulate all those who had a share in it, particularly Charles and Brigitte Marq who translated Marc Chagall's visual poetry into glass, and I should also like to thank all those whose generosity has helped to make this event possible.

"This beautiful memorial to Dag Hammarskjold and to his companions becomes today a living part of our own awareness of the meaning and purpose of the United Nations."

STAFF MEMORIAL TO DAG HAMMARSKJOLD AND 15 WHO DIED WITH HIM
TO BE UNVEILED ON 17 SEPTEMBER

A stained glass panel by the French artist Marc Chagall will be unveiled at United Nations Headquarters on 17 September as a memorial to former Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and the 15 others who died with him* in 1961 in a plane crash at Ndola, Northern Rhodesia. The ceremony will mark the third anniversary of the accident.

The memorial will be unveiled by the Secretary-General, U Thant, in the south-eastern section of the lobby of the Secretariat building, facing the East River.

Creation of the memorial has been made possible by United Nations staff members at Headquarters and abroad, who to date have donated $17,000 in response to an appeal launched soon after Mr. Hammarskjold's death by a committee of the United Nations Staff Council.

The late Secretary-General was an admirer of the work of Marc Chagall, and the artist agreed to donate an original work for the memorial. He began working on the sketch about 18 months ago and the final "maquette" -- the painting on which the stained glass panel is based -- was ready late last year. The task of translating the "maquette" on glass has since been carried out at the Atelier Jacques Simon, a stained glass workshop in Reims, France.

The panel, which is about 15 feet wide and 12 feet high, depicts conceptions of the artist on the themes of peace and man.

The Italian Line agreed to transport the panel from France to New York free of charge, and it arrived on 27 August on board the liner Cristoforo Colombo. The panel is in five sections and will be assembled at United Nations Headquarters.

The artist and Mrs. Chagall will be present at the unveiling of the memorial on 17 September.

* Those with Mr. Hammarskjold were seven United Nations staff members and two Swedish soldiers serving with the United Nations Operation in the Congo, along with six Swedish crew members of the aircraft.

Dear U Thant,

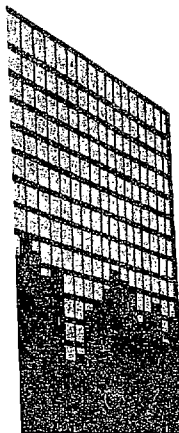

I was unable to see you after the luncheon on Thursday to tell you how very much I appreciate your beautiful gesture to the families of those who lost their lives with Dr. Hammarskjöld. It is such personal expressions which carry the deepest meaning after all, and especially amidst the stress of time and the many world problems with which you are so seriously involved.

Thus, a simple but heart-felt "Thank you", dear friend, and may life's wisdom and strength continue to sustain you in the tremendous tasks ahead.

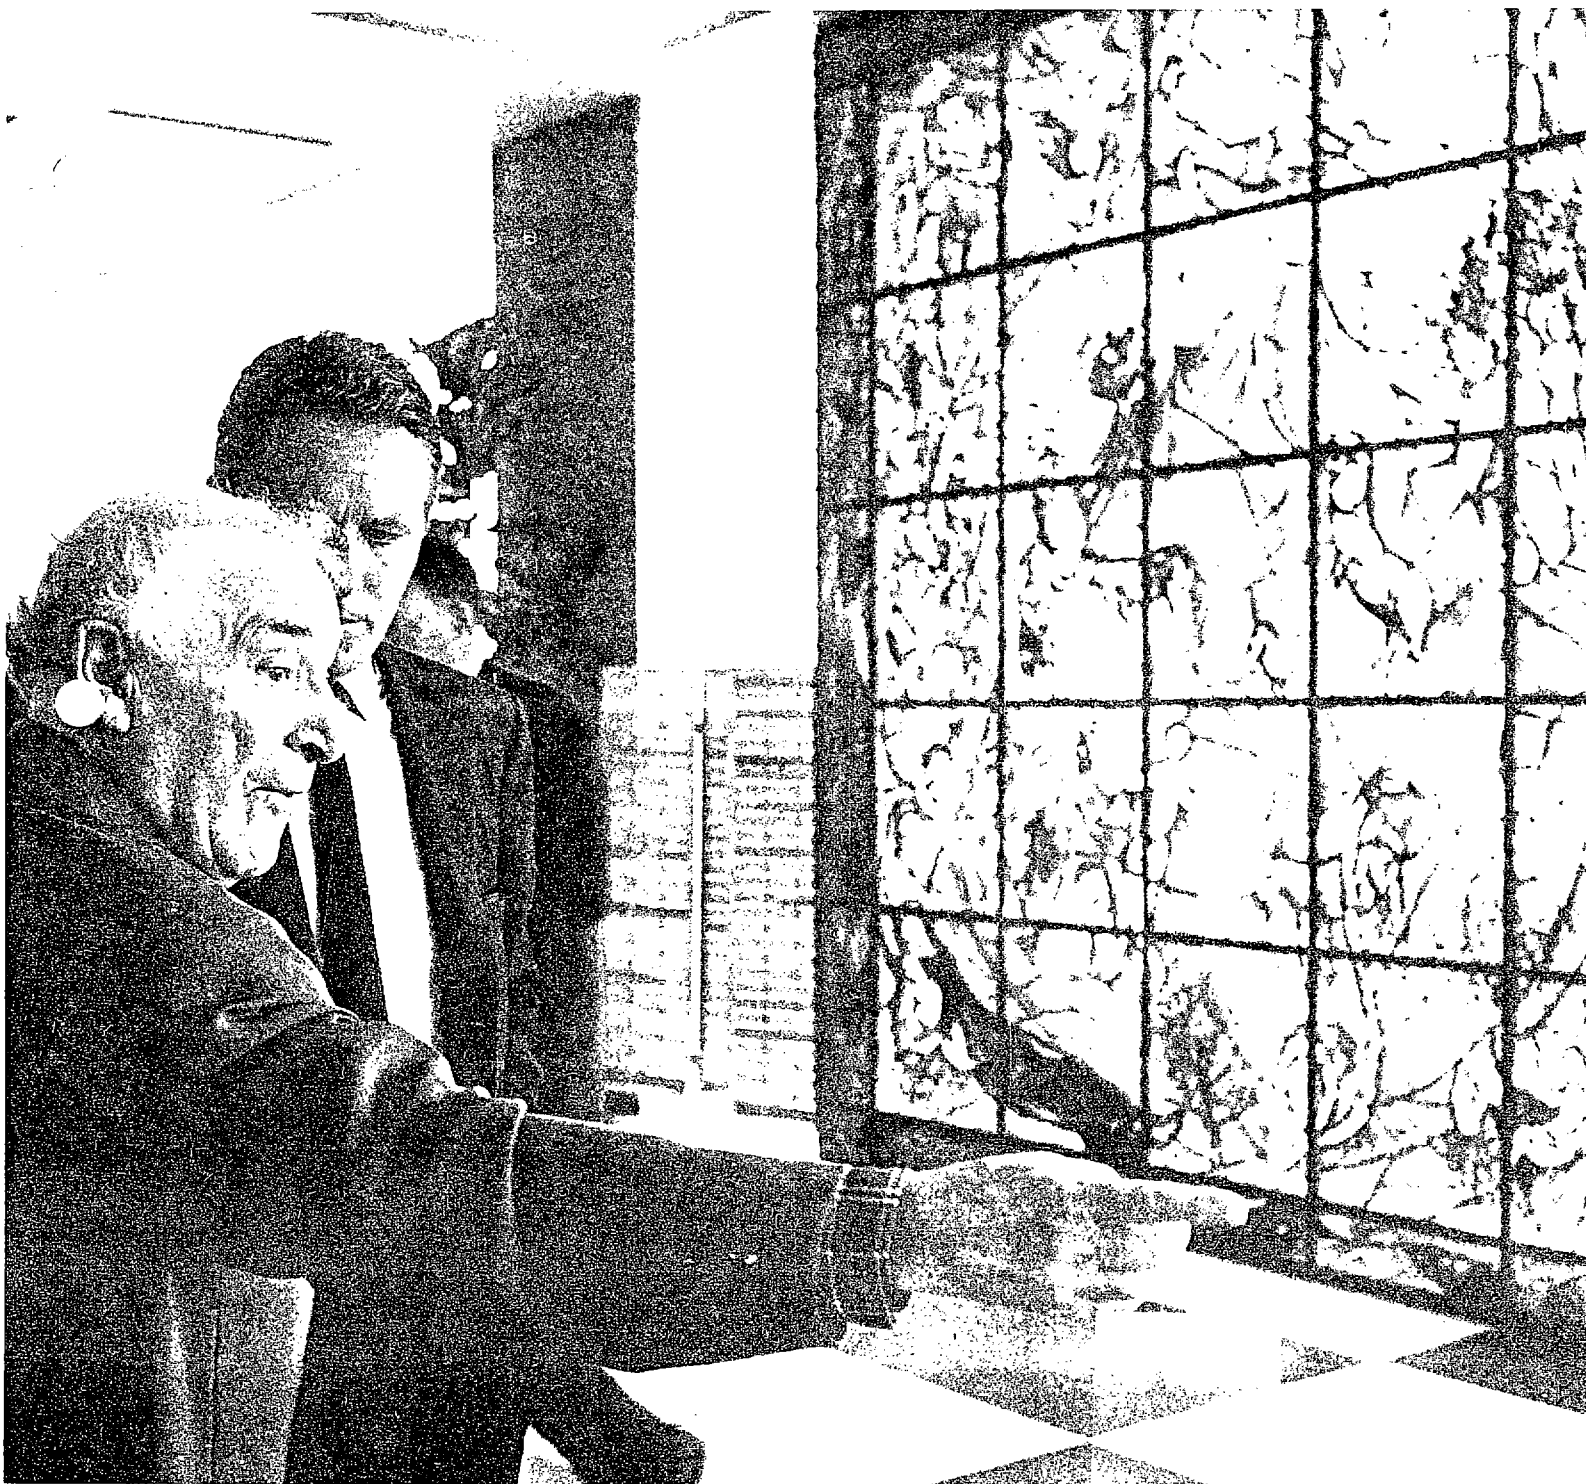

Most sincerely,

Virginia Goss Wierschke//

ON BEETHOVEN'S NINTH SYMPHONY

".....It is difficult to say anything knowing that the words spoken will be followed by this enormous confession of faith in the victorious human spirit and in human brotherhood, a confession valid for all times and with a depth and wealth of expression never surpassed. . .

"When the Ninth Symphony opens we enter a drama full of harsh conflict and dark threats. But the composer leads us on, and in the beginning of the last movement we hear again the various themes repeated, now as a bridge toward a final synthesis. A moment of silence and a new theme is introduced, the theme of reconciliation and joy in reconciliation. A human voice is raised in rejection of all that has preceded and we enter the dreamt kingdom of peace. New voices join the first and mix in a jubilant assertion of life and all that it gives us when we meet it, joined in faith and human solidarity.

"On his road from conflict and emotion to reconciliation in this final hymn of praise, Beethoven has given us a confession and a credo which we, who work within and for this organization, may well make our own. We take part in a continuous fight between conflicting interests and ideologies which so far has marked the history of mankind, but we may never lose our faith that the first movements one day will be followed by the fourth movement. In that faith we strive to bring order and purity into chaos and anarchy. Inspired by that faith we try to impose the laws of the human mind and of the integrity of the human will on the dramatic evolution in which we are all engaged and in which we all carry our responsibility. . . "

UPON HEARING AGAIN THE LAST CHORALE OF BACH'S ST. MATTHEW PASSION

Soar, sweet, sad tune and carry into vacant space despair, compassion, exultation, glory, to fill it: to bring life to senseless stones and vapors,
to stir an echo in what strings the heavens may retain -
Sweet tune that sears as pain, yet gentle as affection, while thus recalling greater sacrifice, encompass our own small sorrow.

The tears have ceased.
The faded wreaths have crumbled.
The silent crowds that witnessed,
numbed and humbled, a nameless grief,
long since have gone their way.
Nothing remains but what the heart in wonder once gathered through a spark of understanding and does not surrender.

In memoriam

On 17 September three years ago, Dag Hammarskjöld and his companions died at Ndola. To-day especially they are in our thoughts.

A stained glass panel by Chagall, tangible memorial from the staff to our colleagues and former Secretary-General, was unveiled to-day in the Secretariat lobby at Headquarters.

Mr. Hammarskjöld deeply admired the art of Chagall. When Chagall learned that the staff was searching for some suitable way of commemorating the death of their colleagues and former Secretary-General, he offered to make a design for a memorial in glass.

This design was executed by Charles Marq at the Ateliers Simon in Reims.

Chagall described the composition of his design in a letter to the Chairman of the Staff Committee:

"...J'aimerais vous donner quelques renseignements écrits concernant la composition de la maquette du futur vitrail, rappelant ceux que je vous ai déjà donnés aussi verbalement.

Le centre est occupé par le symbole mondial de la Paix.

Du côté droit, en haut, il y les signes de la Loi et des idéaux de notre temps.

Comme vous m'avez dit que Monsieur Hammarskjöld a aimé et que l'O. N. U. célèbre chaque année la commémoration de sa création par l'audition de la 9ème Symphonie de Beethoven, le peuple présent, à droite, est imprégné par cet événement.

Du côté gauche, il y a la maternité et le signe d'autres sacrifices pour l'idéal et la justice.

Plus haut, à gauche, il y a les défenseurs de la paix et les martyrs.

Pour inspirer le recueillement, et comme suite à notre conversation, le bleu est la tonalité générale du futur vitrail avec ses variations ainsi que quelques tons contrastés..."

Looking at the stained glass panel to-day, we in this house think not only with sadness of what the deaths of Dag Hammarskjöld and our colleagues meant to us, but of what their lives mean and will continue to mean, to others as well as ourselves.

which used to stand by his desk on the 38th floor; there is the exquisitely engraved Arabian tray whose inscriptions Mr. Thulin will now be able to read to future visitors, thanks to my colleague from Jordan, Ribhi Abu El Haj, who was our companion on this visit to Backåkra. In the top picture at the left is Mr. Thulin; below, Ribhi Abu El Haj looks at the Hepworth sculpture.

Dag Hammarskjöld said in his will that Backåkra should always be open for meetings arranged on the initiative of the United Nations. Only the day before we visited the farm my colleague and I had attended a UN seminar. Next time, perhaps...

STOCKHOLM YOUTH CHORALE

On 2 September the UN Singers were privileged to introduce an all-too-short recital by the Stockholm Youth Chorale in the Dag Hammarskjöld Library. This Chorale, formed of 60 young Swedes under the direction of Karl-Fredrik Jehrlander, had spent six weeks in Michigan under a student exchange programme, "Youth for Understanding," sponsored by the Council of Churches. On their way back to Sweden they sang in the Swedish Pavilion at the World's Fair and ended their tour with the recital in the Library.

Among those who attended was the Swedish Ambassador to the UN, H. E. Mr. S. C. Astrom and Mr. J. B. Phillips of the Ghana Delegation.

Those who heard the Stockholm Youth Chorale were undoubtedly struck by the perfect blend of voices and the fact that they sing a cappella. Mr. Jehrlander also managed to obtain from them the most beautiful nuances of tone and dynamics with the minimum of movement in a programme of delightful Swedish songs which included a soprano solo.

The programme was taped by OPI for UN radio.

NEW UNITED NATIONS STAMP

A UN stamp in denominations of 5c and 11c, commemorating "Control - Narcotics," will be issued on 21 September. Details about the stamp, designed by Kurt Plowitz (USA), may be found in circulars ST/ADM/SER. A/952 and ST/ADM/SER. C/103, dated 10 September of this year. The new stamp and hand-cancellation may be obtained by staff members at the south end of the Secretariat Lobby from 10 a.m. - 2 p.m. on 21 September.

FIELD HOCKEY

The New York Field Hockey Club invites members of the Secretariat and Delegations to take part in its activities. Regular and tournament games are scheduled for Sundays in Westchester, New Jersey and Philadelphia. Training and practice sessions are held every Saturday from 11 am to 1 pm in Cunningham Park, Long Island. Transportation to all games can be arranged. For further information, call Rudy Luft at HI 5-5969, or Norris Robinson UN extension 2049.

BRIDGE CLUB

A new Executive Board has been nominated - we shall list officers in the next issue.

Winners of the past games are: 20 August: 1st: D. Lippner - M. Galatola; 2nd: E. Merrill - Morr. 27 August: 1st: O. and J. Ditta; 2nd: Mr. and Mrs. Oppenheim. 3 September: 1st: D. Lippner - C. Brasel; 2nd: M. Galatola - S. Micula.

BIBLIOTHEQUE DE LANGUE FRANCAISE

La Bibliothèque de langue française a repris son horaire normal. Elle est désormais ouverte le lundi, le mercredi et le vendredi, de 13 à 14 heures (bureau 1224). Pour tous renseignements, s'adresser à M. Jean Gazarian (bureau 3802, poste 2427).

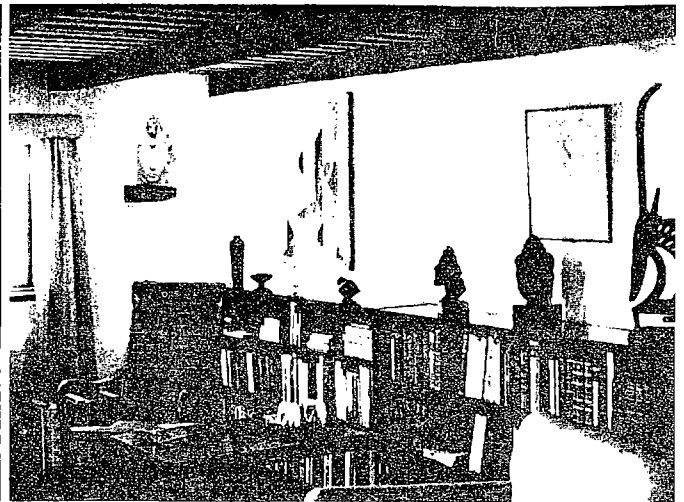

The death of Knut Fredner on 14 August in Norway has saddened many of us.

To those who worked with him during his eighteen years in the United Nations - first with the Purchase and Transportation Division, briefly with ESA, recently in the Special Fund - he was an admirable colleague, quietly reliable, rather reserved, a kindly but forthright man. His friends knew him, too, as an accomplished pianist, a warm host, a good companion for a day of hunting, skiing or sailing a boat.

Above all, Knut was a family man whose life centred upon his very happy home.

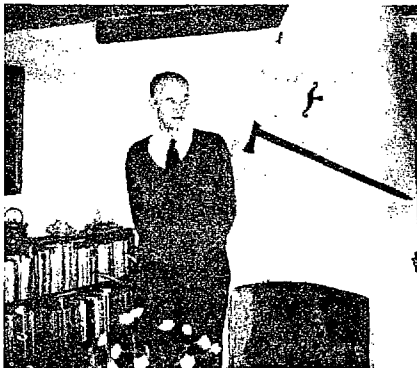

Our thoughts and deepest sympathy go to his wife, Martha, his daughter, Kari, and his brother, Rolf, in their grievous loss.

Backåkra

The sunshine was brilliant over the blue sea and larks were singing their spring symphony in the sky above as we walked the last mile along the trail which led to Backåkra, the farm in southernmost Sweden which Dag Hammarskjöld had intended to make his home when he became his own master again. He never saw the farm completely restored. In 1959 and 1960 the buildings, seriously dilapidated, underwent a loving restoration, inspired and supervised by Bo Beskow. Backåkra awaited its master in vain. It is owned to-day, in accordance with Dag Hammarskjöld's will, by the Swedish Touring Club of which our former Secretary-General was President for a number of years.

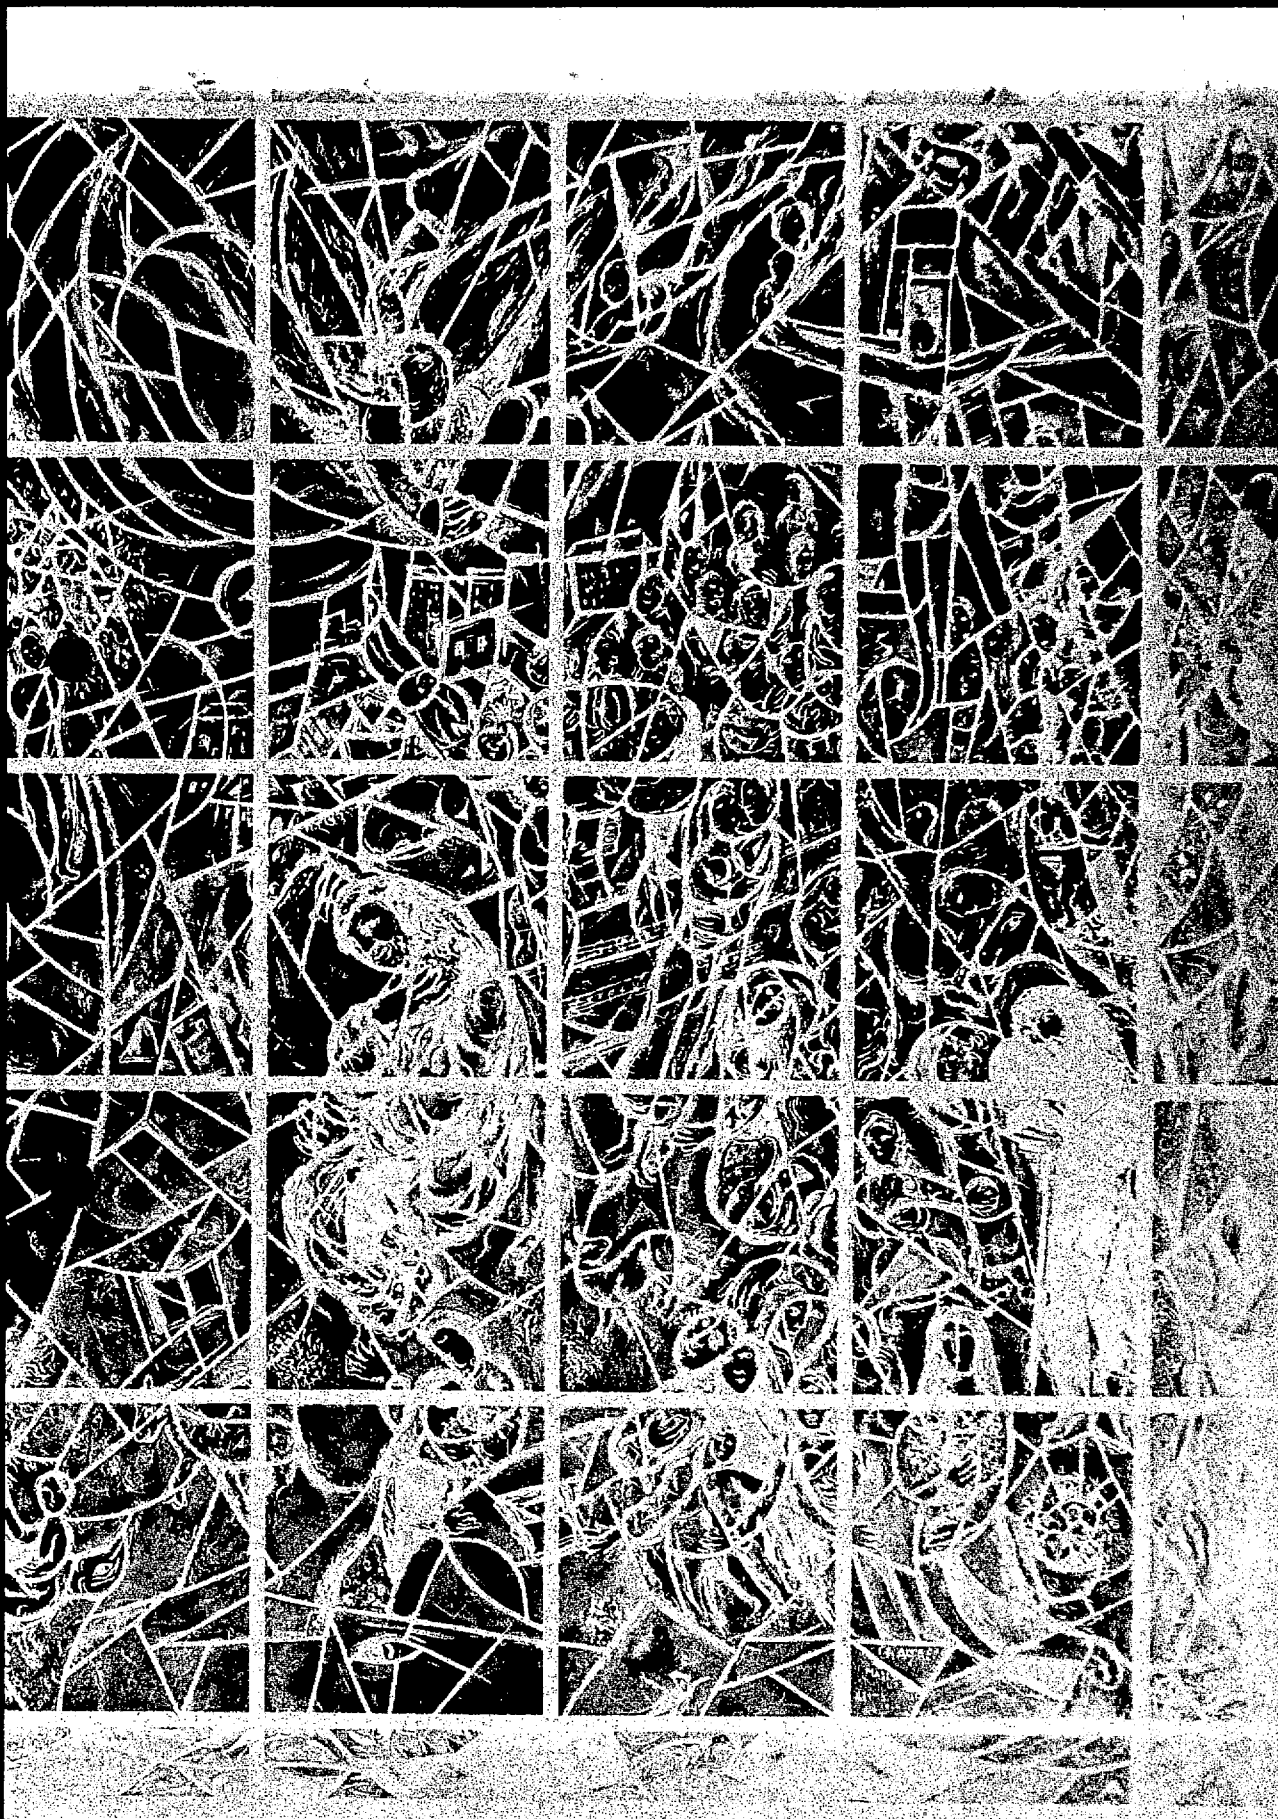

To the man who, after long years of wandering, is making his way home to rest and find peace on his own land, this place must have seemed very attractive. The farmhouse itself is also attractive, its courtyard shutting out the wind and giving privacy but retaining the sun's warmth for enjoyment on the stone step, or on a bench along the wall covered with hollyhocks. Equally beautiful is the surrounding heathland which slopes gently down to the sea. This heath where Viking barrows lie has been pasture land for a thousand years; it will be preserved as pasture in perpetuity - "fridlyst" thanks to Dag Hammarskjöld's initiative.

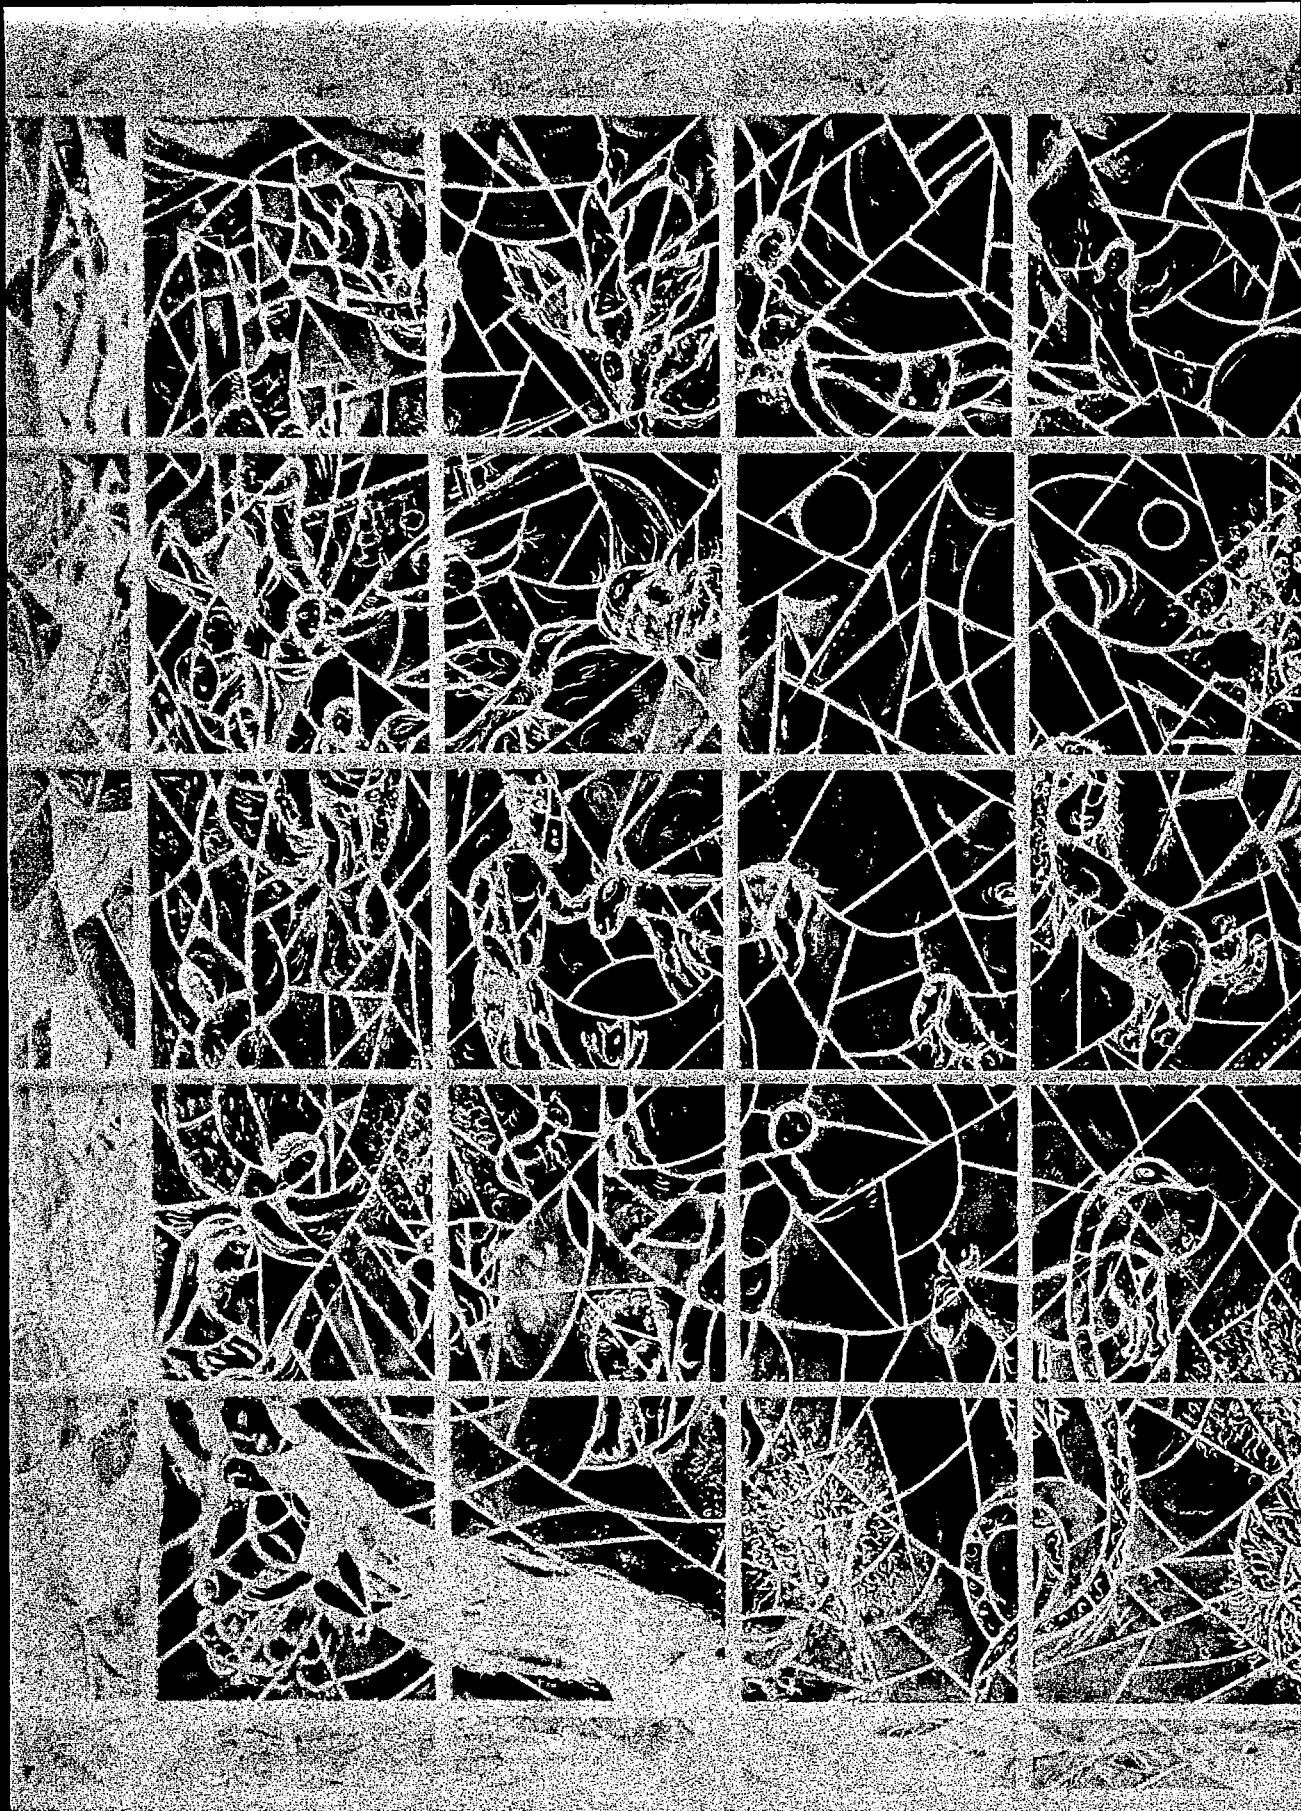

At the time of our visit the heath was covered with spring flowers. We could appreciate the story told of Dag Hammarskjöld's last visit to Backåkra in 1959. He and Bill Ranallo took turns at house cleaning, but one morning Bill went walking over to Bo Beskow who owns a house nearby, complaining bitterly, "You know what he's doing instead of sweeping the floor? Picking flowers!"

In autumn the heath is painted in the golden-red colours so vividly displayed in the Rya rug on the penthouse floor of the Dag Hammarskjöld Library, the rug which its designer appropriately named "Löderup" after the little fishing village near Backåkra.

Mr. August Thulin, warden of Backåkra, gave us a very special tour of the farm when he discovered that we were from the United Nations - everyone from this house will be given a special tour, he assured us, taking us through all the rooms including those not open to the public. Many precious things given to Dag Hammarskjöld on his journeys have found a permanent home here. There is Tenzing's ax over the fireplace; there is Bo Beskow's original painting of the mural in the Meditation Room; there is the Hepworth sculpture

BIENVENIDO

Gonzalo Bueno is now Director of the UN Information Centre in San Salvador.

An Ecuadoran, Mr. Bueno was educated at Central University, Quito, and worked as a freelance journalist, contributing to a number of daily papers and magazines. In 1940 he became manager of Radio Quito and editor of the newspaper El Comercial. He has written several books of short stories, essays and poems.

Mr. Bueno joined the Secretariat in 1947 as Programme Officer in the Radio Division of OPI. Since 1959 he has been Director of UNIC, Bogota.

UN TENNIS CLUB

The UN Mens' Tennis Team was host to Fordham University's Team in a return engagement on 30 August. In the first encounter at Fordham they had lost by the narrow margin of five matches to four. The day of the second tournament was very hot and humid but the UN men survived the test of endurance and won by the gratifying score of seven matches to two, losing only one singles and one doubles. The members of the UN Team were Han Ong, Shail Upadhyaya, Torbjorn Nylen, Jacques Crouzet-Pascal, Alfredo Andreas, Milton Hans, and Colin Woods. For further information, call J. D. Pringle, extension 2768.

THE RED CROSS BLOODMOBILE is at Headquarters to-day and tomorrow. Please remember that blood donors are urgently needed. For information, call extension 3255.

TAI CHI CLUB

The UN Tai Chi Chuan Club will open its 1964 season with a social gathering at noon on Tuesday, 29 September. A buffet lunch will be served at a cost of $1.00 per person. There will be a demonstration for the benefit of prospective members. Please register with Club officers if you would like to attend: Alice Smith, extension 2940; Wellington Lee, extension 3028, Charlotte Carpenter, extension 872, Simon Chang, extension 3035.

On Staff Day the Club will give a ten-minute demonstration showing that Tai Chi Chuan is a healthy exercise and can be used effectively in self-defence.

BIRTH

To Mr. and Mrs. Luciano Rosati (née Annie Kisray), a daughter, Assia Sabina Lul, on 1 August in New York. Mr. and Mrs. Rosati are both with the UN in Somalia.

UN RADIO CLUB

Don't forget the Field Day (with a hunt for a hidden radio station) at Westbury Gardens, Long Island, on 26 September. Call Charles Krolewski, extension 2356 for information.

NEVER ON SUNDAY

A dark haired Greek beauty, Kiriaki Tsopeli of Athens, visited Headquarters recently. Her name "Kiriaki" means "Sunday" in Greek "but the greatest thing in the world - being named Miss Universe of 1964 - happened to me on a Saturday night," she said. Miss Universe posed at the UNICEF booth where greeting cards are now on sale - 21 designs by artists from many countries including Indonesia, Italy, Puerto Rico, Sweden and Vietnam. To celebrate the Year of International Co-operation 1965 and the 20th anniversary of the UN, UNICEF is also re-issuing the design of the UN by France's famous Raoul Dufy. Sales of greeting cards grow each year. Last year, 32,000,000 cards were sold with a profit of $2,000,000 for UNICEF and this year the Fund hopes to do even better.

SAKARI S. TUOMIOJA

Although Sakari Tuomioja served the United Nations for a relatively short period, he made many friends both in Geneva and at Headquarters, in the Secretariat as well as among delegations. All of his friends will mourn his untimely passing away at a time when it seemed that he was embarking on a second and perhaps extended period of distinguished service with the United Nations in the political and diplomatic field.

Sakari Tuomioja first entered the service of the United Nations in the summer of 1957 on the economic side, as Executive Secretary of the Economic Commission for Europe. He was specially qualified for this position in view of his long tenure as the Governor of the Bank of Finland, and for shorter periods as Finance Minister and Minister for Commerce and Industry. However, he had great abilities and considerable experience in the field of diplomacy, having been Foreign Minister and Prime Minister of Finland, and also for a time Finnish Ambassador to the United Kingdom. His special qualifications as a diplomat were recognized by the late Secretary-General, Mr. Dag Hammarskjöld, who sent Mr. Tuomioja to Laos in late 1959 to help work out a programme of economic integration of that country. Mr. Tuomioja served off and on as the Secretary-General's special representative in Laos until early 1961.

In 1961 Mr. Tuomioja was again sent out as his country's Ambassador, this time to Sweden. In this capacity he was present on the melancholy occasion of the funeral of the late Secretary-General, Mr. Hammarskjöld, at Uppsala.

In view of his diplomatic skill, his distinguished record of service in his own country and his personal qualities, he was hailed on all sides as the right man for the job when Secretary-General U Thant invited him to return to the service of the United Nations as the United Nations Cyprus Mediator. He took up this job with great seriousness, enthusiasm and energy; he had made considerable progress with his negotiations and was embarking on a further round of discussions with the Governments of Cyprus, Greece and Turkey when he was struck down.

Sakari Tuomioja's outstanding quality was his patience and his willingness to listen to the other man's point of view. Ordinarily he was the soul of discretion but he could be quite frank when the occasion demanded. He was always soft-spoken, and he retained a quality of boyish charm which had earned him the nickname of "Poju" in his own country.

He was deeply interested in the work of the United Nations and anxious to make his contribution to its success. His untimely end is a great loss not only to his dear ones, to his many friends and to his own country, but also to the entire world body.

C. V. N.

FRANK KRAUS

UNICEF suffered a heavy loss in the death on 4 September of Frank Kraus, a much loved and respected staff member for fourteen years. Mr. Kraus brought to the Children's Fund qualities of both mind and heart.

As Assistant Comptroller and Chief of the Accounts Section he played an important role in UNICEF's financial matters, including, in the early days, the re-organization of the whole accounting system and later the introduction of mechanical accounting.

He had an unusually creative mind and he frequently devised new analytical approaches for foreseeing the long-range relationships of UNICEF programme and financial trends. His colleagues, both in the Comptrollers Office and in other Divisions of UNICEF, valued his judgement and the new perspectives he very often gave them on the many matters which they took to him for his advice. "What does Frank Kraus think of this?" came to be a frequently asked question in UNICEF Headquarters on virtually any subject having even remote financial implications.

His contribution was by no means limited to his professional talents. He was a warm and kindly person and one of complete integrity. He had a deep belief in the purposes of UNICEF and a great interest in all its operations. In his devotion to his work he refused to spare his health.

Mr. Kraus is survived by his wife, Ilsa, to whom our deepest sympathy goes. He will be sorely missed.

STAFF DAY HIGHLIGHTS

MARIAN ANDERSON: One of the most honoured women in the world - she has received no less than twenty-four honorary doctorates.

VICTOR BORGE: Stipend to this unmelancholy Dane for his last television special was a quarter of a million dollars - not bad for an evening's work.

JOHNNY CARSON: Star of NBC-TV's "To-night" show, recently played at Las Vegas' Sahara Hotel where he broke all records with turn-away crowds for every performance of his four-week engagement.

YOICHI HIRAOKA: Of whom the Nippon Times says "one of the finest artists Japan has produced," took up the xylophone when his father advised "select something you can carry." He started out with a compact two and a half octave instrument - to-day used one of four and a half octaves which is transported in three cases.

MARNI NIXON: Time calls her "the ghostess with the mostest" since she is the film singing voice of Audrey Hepburn ("My Fair Lady"), Deborah Kerr ("The King and I"), Natalie Wood ("West Side Story") and Janet Leigh ("Pepe"). Marni is jetting from California to join the Staff Day Show.

EINAR OLSEN, Executive Officer of the UN Co-operative, has left the United Nations to resume a business career which was interrupted many years ago, first by World War II, then by a period of service with CARE and eleven years at UN Headquarters.

The Co-operative's Board of Directors gave a farewell lunch last week for Mr. Olsen and a few of his friends. Jan Van Wijk, President of the Board, thanked Mr. Olsen - as we should all like to do - for the fine job he has done over the years, running the Co-operative so profitably on our behalf. He has undoubtedly been the moving spirit of the Co-operative which has grown to meet so many of our needs and wishes accumulating at the same time a reserve fund now nearly 70% of share capital.

Mr. Olsen is going to Stockholm to establish and direct a Trade Centre for the US Department of Commerce. Six of these Trade Centres have been established in various parts of the world by the US Government in recent years to encourage export of American products.

Mr. Herbert Garson, formerly the Co-operative's Chief Accountant, is now Acting Executive Officer.

PURE PARKINSON

From the shores of Tripoli, Lionel Bloch of TAB/Special Fund calls attention to a communication received from UNESCO:

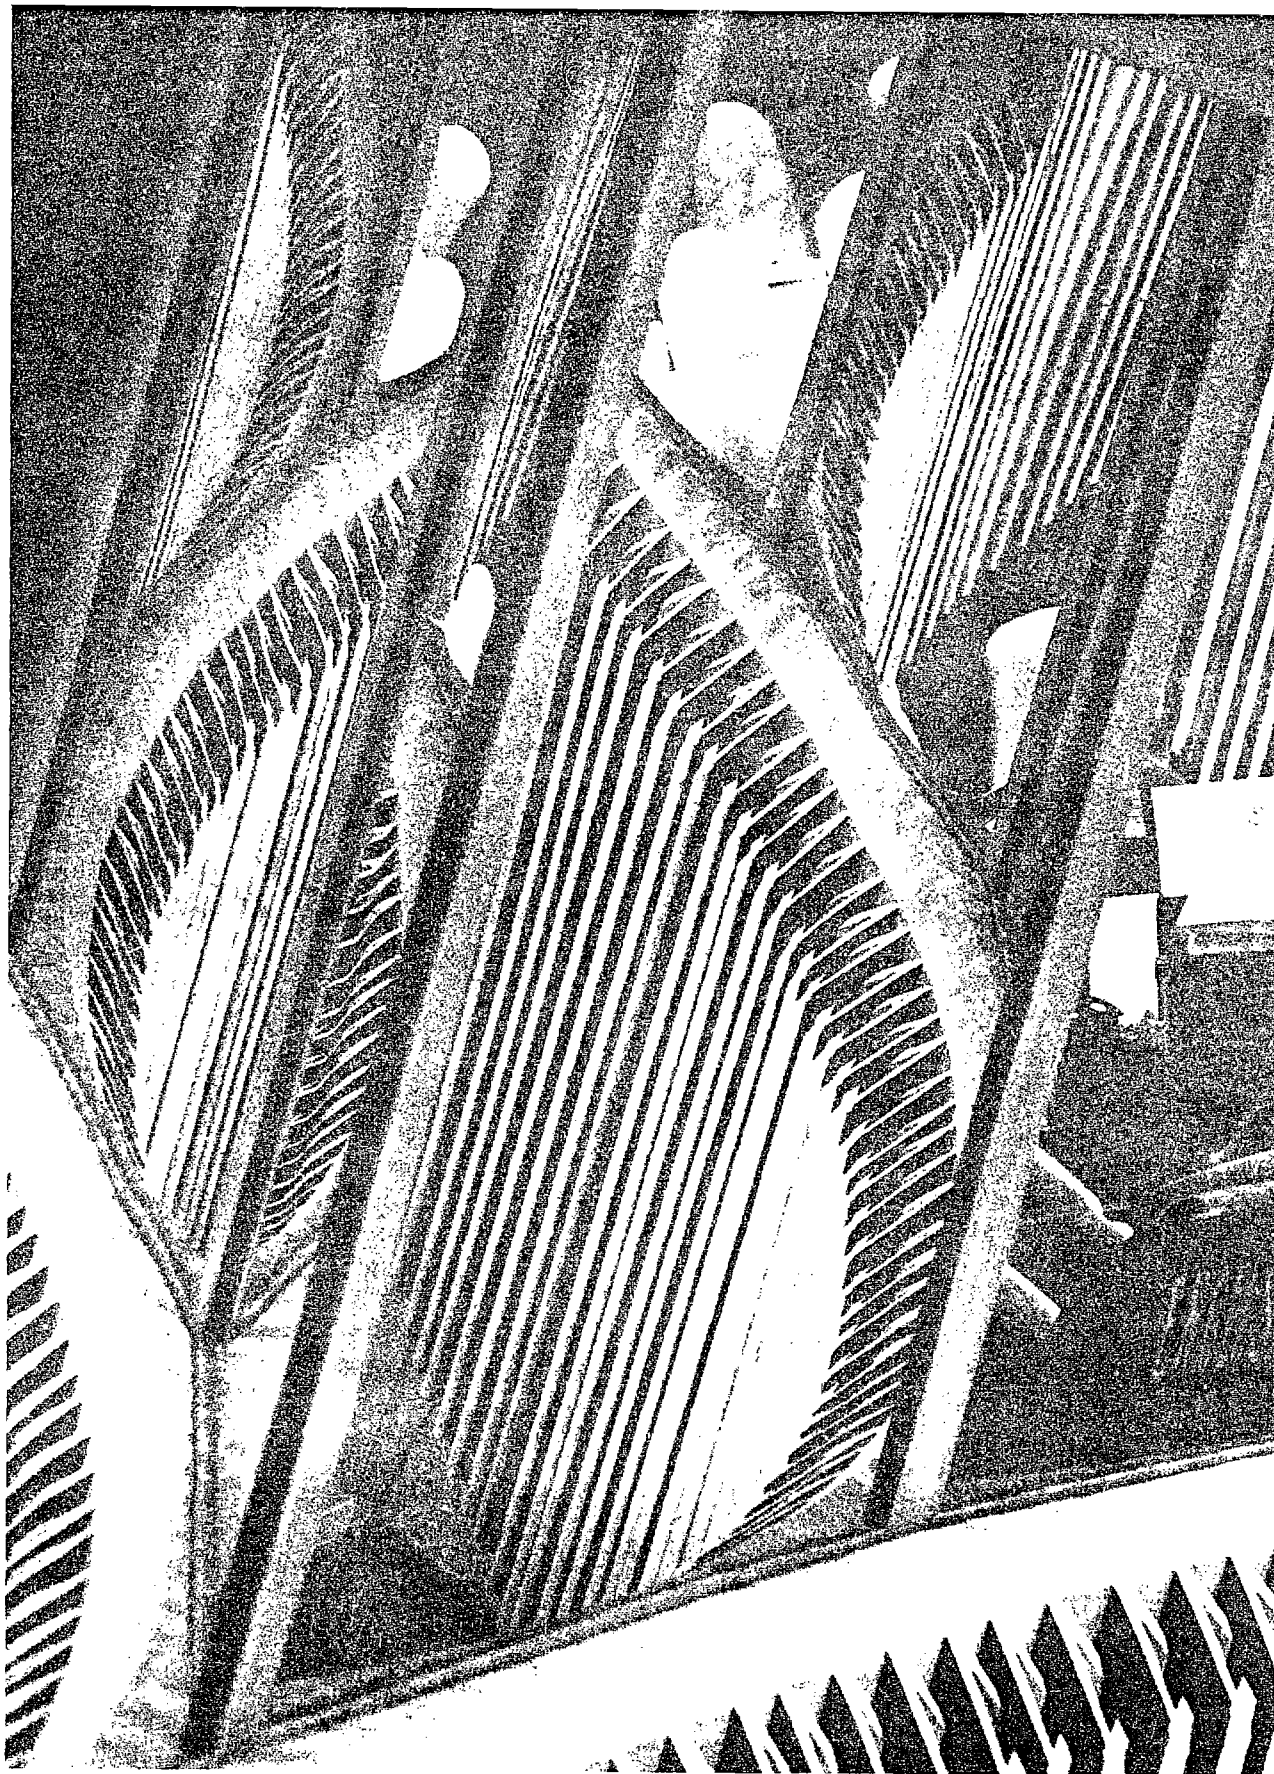

"Further changes in the staff of this Bureau and simplification of administrative procedure require the addition of one man or name to the list of authorized signatories."

HERE'S HOPING...

While in Italy this summer I made a few friends who asked me to keep in touch with them. One Italian signor was especially keen on getting a Christmas card from New York. I told him that I would be delighted to comply with his request, but that I did not know his name or address and would he please write them in my little book? He wrote only his address and to my question "what about your name?" he replied "this you will easily remember. My name is Roberto Speranza and in English it means Bob Hope!"

STATEMENT BY MR. BASILE YAKOVLEV
Chairman of the Staff Committee

For all of us of the staff this is a moment of profound emotion. Three years ago, Dag Hammarskjöld and his companions died at Ndola in a tragic plane accident while on a mission of peace.

It was in order to pay tribute to their memory that the United Nations staff throughout the world spontaneously decided to embark upon this ambitious venture and to contribute so generously towards its success.

Thanks to Marc Chagall's admirable contribution, thanks to Charles Marq, who executed the panel, thanks to the many, known and unknown alike, who have worked so hard to bring about today's culmination of our collective efforts, we all can take pride in this achievement and feel that the monument is worthy of those for whom it stands: Dag Hammarskjöld, H. A. Wieschhoff, Vladimir Fabry, William Ranallo, Alice Lalande, Harold M. Julien, Serge L. Barrau, Francis Eivers and the members of the crew of the aircraft: Per Hallonquist, Nils-Eric Aahreus, Lars Litton, Harald Noork, Nils G. Wilhelmsson, Karl Erik Rosen, S. O. Hjelte and P. E. Persson.

The themes that this memorial evokes are universal, for they contain a message of peace and love from a humble and deeply inspired artist to his fellow men.

In spite of the diversity of our backgrounds, of our cultures and of our beliefs, all of us have a share in the symbolic representation of our most earnest yearnings. And, above all, this is our act of faith in the United Nations—an expression of our conviction that those who died for it did not die in vain. Mr. Secretary-General, on behalf of the entire staff, I present this memorial to the United Nations.

ALLOCUTION DE M. BASILE YAKOVLEV
Président du Comité du personnel

C'est pour nous tous au Secrétariat un moment d'émotion profonde. Il y a trois ans, Dag Hammarskjöld et ses compagnons, partis pour une mission de paix, trouvaient la mort à Ndola dans un tragique accident d'avion.

Pour rendre hommage à leur mémoire, le personnel des Nations Unies dans le monde entier a spontanément décidé cette entreprise ambitieuse, au succès de laquelle il a si généreusement contribué.

Grâce à l'oeuvre admirable offerte par Marc Chagall; grâce à Charles Marq, qui a exécuté le vitrail; grâce à beaucoup d'autres, connus ou inconnus, qui ont travaillé avec tant d'ardeur pour permettre aujourd'hui la réalisation de nos efforts collectifs, nous pouvons tous être fiers du résultat obtenu et estimer que le monument est digne de ceux qu'il honore: Dag Hammarskjöld, H. A. Wieschhoff, Vladimir Fabry, William Ranallo, Alice Lalande, Harold M. Julien, Serge L. Barrau, Francis Eivers et les membres de l'équipage: Per Hallonquist, Nils Aahreus, Lars Litton, Harald Noork, Nils G. Wilhelmsson, Karl Erik Rosen, S. O. Hjelte et P. E. Persson.

Les thèmes que le mémorial évoque sont universels car ils contiennent un message de paix et d'amour adressé à tous les hommes par un artiste modeste et profondément inspiré.

En dépit de la diversité de nos origines, de nos cultures et de nos croyances, nous avons notre part dans la représentation symbolique des plus nobles de nos convictions. Mais c'est surtout notre acte de foi en l'Organisation des Nations Unies — l'expression de notre conviction que ceux qui sont morts pour Elle ne sont pas morts en vain. Monsieur le Secrétaire général, au nom du personnel tout entier, je remets ce mémorial à l'Organisation des Nations Unies.

ALLOCUTION DE M. MARC CHAGALL
Dessinateur du vitrail

Je suis content d'être parmi vous et de m'unir à vous en ce jour, d'être auprès de gens qui rêvent de la Paix et de l'Amour des peuples. Vous m'avez demandé d'abord, par l'intermédiaire du représentant de ceux qui travaillent dans cette maison, M. Basile Yakovlev, dont la jeunesse et l'enthousiasme m'ont beaucoup encouragé, de faire un vitrail à la mémoire de votre Secrétaire général, M. Dag Hammarskjöld, et de tous ceux qui sont tombés pour la Paix. Je suis heureux de vous l'offrir aujourd'hui. Ce travail m'a tout de suite intéressé. Malgré toutes les difficultés, j'y ai été poussé par ma sympathie pour votre idéal et je vous suis reconnaissant de vous être adressé à moi. Pendant tout ce temps de travail, dans l'atelier à Vence, ensuite à Reims dans l'atelier de Jacques Simon et de Charles Marq, avec leur cordiale collaboration, j'ai entendu en moi comme un écho du destin humain dans le passé et maintenant dans notre époque tourmentée. J'ai profité de mon voyage à New York, l'an dernier, pour entrer en contact avec certains d'entre vous et écouter votre opinion, ce qui m'a donné plus de confiance dans mon travail. Nous avons discuté de différentes idées possibles de ce mémorial. Je me suis rappelé enfin cette légende prophétique sur la Paix et ne connais pas de légende plus poétique et d'une importance mondiale. Il me semble que j'ai rencontré en vous un écho après la vue de quelques esquisses de maquettes pour ce travail, ce qui m'a procuré une très grande joie, car de toute mon âme j'ai voulu exprimer la dimension de mon élan ainsi que l'élan de Dag Hammarskjöld et de tous ceux qui sont tombés pour la Paix. C'est d'ailleurs le but pour lequel a été fondée l'O.N.U. Ces couleurs et ces formes, à la fin des fins, doivent montrer nos rêves de bonheur humain comme nous pouvons l'imaginer aujourd'hui. On peut voir sur ce vitrail, à droite, l'humanité, la soif de paix, ses prophètes et ses victimes; au milieu, le symbole même de la paix. A gauche, en bas et en haut, sont représentés la maternité et les gens qui luttent pour la Paix. Le principal, ce n'est pas de regarder mais de le sentir. Pour ce travail j'ai été loin de toutes les théories du jour. Je voudrais que les gens soient aussi émus que moi quand j'ai tâché à ce travail fait pour tous les peuples de tous les pays, au nom de la Paix et de l'Amour. Merci pour votre confiance et pour l'aide qu'on m'a apportée.

STATEMENT BY MR. MARC CHAGALL
Designer of the Panel

I am happy to be here today with you, among people who strive for peace and brotherly love. I was first approached by your staff representative, Mr. Basile Yakovlev, whose youth and enthusiasm greatly encouraged me, and who asked me on your behalf to design a stained glass window to commemorate your Secretary-General, Mr. Dag Hammarskjöld, and all those who lost their lives with him in the cause of peace. I am now happy to present this memorial to you today. The task immediately caught my interest. In spite of all difficulties, I was spurred on by my sympathy with your ideals, and I am grateful to you for coming to me. While I was working on this project, in my studio at Vence and, later on, at Reims in the studios of Jacques Simon and of Charles Marq, with their generous co-operation, I heard within me, as it were, an echo of man's destiny in the past and now, in our own troubled times. I took advantage of my visit to New York last year to meet some of you and to hear your views; and this gave me greater confidence in my work. Together we discussed various possible ideas for a memorial. Finally I recalled this prophetic legend on the theme of peace, and I can think of no more poetic legend, or one of more universal significance. I thought, on showing you a few sketches, that I sensed in you an echo, and this gave me great joy, because with all my soul I wanted to convey the extent of my inspiration and the inspiration of Dag Hammarskjöld and of all those who died for Peace. For that was the very purpose for which the United Nations was founded. These colours and these forms must show, in the end, our dreams of human happiness, as we conceive it today. On the right-hand side of this panel you will see mankind, with its yearning for peace, its prophets and its victims. In the centre is the symbol of peace itself. On the left, above and below, are depicted motherhood and the people who are struggling for peace. The main thing is not to see it but to feel it. In doing this work, I was far from any current theories. I should like people to be as moved as I was when I was engaged in this work, which was done for the peoples of all countries, in the name of Peace and Love. Thank you for your confidence and for the help that I have been given.

STATEMENT BY U THANT
Secretary-General

This is a day of solemn remembrance. Exactly three years ago Dag Hammarskjöld set out on his final flight. On the morrow the whole world mourned his tragic death and that of his gallant companions.

In a real sense, something of each one of us died with them, for the whole range of the Secretariat was represented on that flight—the substantive officers, the personal assistants, the secretaries, the Field Service and the UN peace-keeping forces.

Today we remember their sacrifice, and we pay tribute to them and to all who have died in the service of the United Nations.

And now a great artist, one of the acknowledged masters of modern art, Marc Chagall, has created a living memorial to their memory; a superb work which takes its place among the historic treasures of this building. In shapes and colours, in symbolic forms and designs, Marc Chagall has sought to express the simplicity and the beauty of the ideals of peace and brotherhood which we all endeavour to serve. I am deeply moved by his symbol of peace—a young child being kissed on the cheek by an angelic face which emerges out of a joyous mass of flowers. And there are other symbols of peace we shall find as we study and search out the varied significance of the glorious design before us.

In expressing man's yearning for peace and brotherhood, and his readiness to lay down his life in his search for these ideals, Marc Chagall has depicted that enduring spiritual reality which gives depth and meaning to human life and to all our efforts, both in the United Nations and outside it, to make this world a safer and better place for all.

In accepting this magnificent work of art, I wish to thank Marc Chagall and all the members of the staff whose joint gift it is. I wish to congratulate all those who had a share in it, particularly Charles Marq, who translated Marc Chagall's visual poetry into glass, and I should also like to thank all those whose generosity has helped to make this event possible.

This beautiful memorial to Dag Hammarskjöld and to his companions becomes today a living part of our own awareness of the meaning and purpose of the United Nations.

ALLOCUTION D' U THANT
Secrétaire général

Ce jour est pour nous une commémoration solennelle. Voilà exactement trois ans aujourd'hui que Dag Hammarskjöld s'embarquait pour son dernier voyage. Le lendemain, le monde entier a pleuré sa mort tragique et celle de ses vaillants compagnons.

En vérité, quelque chose de chacun de nous a disparu avec eux lors de ce vol, où tous les services du Secrétariat étaient représentés—services organiques, assistants personnels, secrétaires, services de sécurité et forces de l'ONU.

Aujourd'hui, leur sacrifice est présent à nos esprits et nous leur rendons hommage, à eux comme à tous ceux qui ont trouvé la mort au service de l'Organisation des Nations Unies.

Un grand artiste, un des maîtres reconnus de l'art moderne, Marc Chagall, a conçu un vivant hommage à leur mémoire, une oeuvre magnifique qui prend place parmi les trésors historiques qu'abrite ce bâtiment. Par les formes et les couleurs, par le symbolisme du motif et de l'image, Marc Chagall a cherché à exprimer la simplicité et la beauté des idéaux de paix et de fraternité que nous nous efforçons tous de servir. Ce symbole de paix—un jeune enfant sur la joue duquel un visage angélique sortant d'une masse joyeuse de fleurs dépose un baiser—m'émeut profondément. Et il y a d'autres symboles de paix que nous découvrons à mesure que nous approfondissons la signification si riche de ce superbe vitrail qui s'offre à nos yeux. En exprimant l'aspiration de l'homme à la paix et à la fraternité et en nous montrant que l'homme est prêt à donner sa vie pour ces idéaux, Marc Chagall a dépeint cette réalité spirituelle éternelle qui donne toute leur portée et tout leur sens à la vie humaine et à tout ce que nous faisons, tant à l'Organisation des Nations Unies qu'au dehors, pour rendre ce monde où nous vivons meilleur et plus sûr pour tous.

En acceptant cette splendide oeuvre commémorative, je tiens à remercier Marc Chagall et tous les fonctionnaires du Secrétariat de ce don qu'ensemble ils ont offert. Je tiens à féliciter tous ceux qui y ont une part, et notamment Charles Marq, qui a concrétisé dans le verre la poésie visuelle de Marc Chagall, et je tiens aussi à remercier tous ceux dont la générosité a rendu cette cérémonie possible.

Cet admirable tribut à la mémoire de Dag Hammarskjöld et de ses compagnons devient aujourd'hui un élément vivant de la conscience que nous avons du sens et du but de l'Organisation des Nations Unies.

STAFF ASSOCIATION OF THE UNITED NATIONS, HEADQUARTERS, NEW YORK

SCB/107

25 August 1964

PROGRESS REPORT BY THE STAFF MEMORIAL COMMITTEE
ANNOUNCING RENEWED DRIVE TO COMPLETE FINANCING OF THE CHAGALL STAINED GLASS PANEL

On 17 September, the third anniversary of the tragic accident at Ndola, Northern Rhodesia, in which Dag Hammarskjöld and his companions lost their lives, a stained glass panel by Chagall, contributed entirely by the staff in tribute to their memory, will be unveiled at United Nations Headquarters. The Secretary-General has accepted to preside over the dedication ceremony. It is expected that Marc Chagall and his wife will attend.

The panel, some 180 square feet in size, will stand in the southeastern part of the Secretariat lobby facing the East River.

The idea of a memorial came soon after Dag Hammarskjöld's death. There were some hesitations as to the nature of such a memorial. Some thought was given to having a "living" memorial in the form of a scholarship or a prize, awarded possibly on an annual basis. Even though the staff contributed most generously, it was felt that the $17,000 collected thus far would not be sufficient to yield annual amounts large enough to cover such purposes. It was finally decided that some well-known artist should be approached to find out whether he would be willing to donate one of his works. Marc Chagall was enthusiastic about this undertaking and he was one of Dag Hammarskjöld's preferred artists. Chagall started working on the sketch some eighteen months ago and the final "maquette" was ready late last year. It had then to be "translated" on glass, a highly specialized undertaking which has been completed with success by Charles Marq at the Simon Ateliers in Reims, France. The panel is at present on its way on board the Cristoforo Colombo. The Italian Line, to whom the ship belongs, was generous enough to accept making the shipment free of charge. The panel is to arrive on 27 August.

Thus, the wish of the staff is about to be fulfilled. Many problems had to be overcome. One financial problem remains which can be solved through the staff's continued generosity. When apprised in early 1964 of the estimated cost — in the neighborhood of $20,000 — of the glass work, installation, etc., the Staff Council, upon the recommendation of the Staff Memorial Committee, unanimously decided to go ahead with the glass panel which had advanced to the stage where the creative sketch was almost final. Realizing that all the money at present in the fund would go into that undertaking, the Council felt that "the commitment that had already been made should be honoured ... and that, if necessary, the Staff Memorial Committee would take upon itself a drive for more funds, especially from staff members."

It now appears that the overall cost will be close to $23,000, since the panel alone costs some $21,000. The Staff Memorial Committee is thus some $6,000 short. It is necessary that the drive be renewed throughout the Secretariat. The Staff Memorial Committee trusts that those who have not yet made their contributions will do so now and that those who have already contributed will wish once again to participate in the most enthusiastic and most unanimous expression of tribute to the late Secretary-General and those who with him died in the service of the United Nations. Staff Council representatives, or in their absence their alternates or the Unit Chairmen, will be in charge of the collection at Headquarters. It will begin on 16 September and will last until the first of October. Staff on mission, on leave, or in the field, can also make individual contributions by sending their checks to the U.N. Staff Memorial Committee, Room 671.

Members of the Secretariat will soon be informed of the details of the dedication ceremony and of their participation in it.

CHAGALL INSPECTS NEW U.N. WINDOW

French Artist Gives Advice on Setting of His Work

By LAWRENCE O'KANE

Special to The New York Times

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 9.—Marc Chagall took a first, unscheduled look today at his stained glass window in its United Nations setting.

Hand fluttering like an orchestra leader's, the artist traced the panel's leaded curves—"Ici, le peuple; ici, maternité; ici, les martyrs"—explaining his design, first to United Nations officials, next to a Swiss history professor and finally to a guard who spoke no French.

He offered firm instructions for changes in the setting to integrate the predominantly blue window into the architecture of the Secretariat Building's lobby. Some of the changes presented problems that were not insignificant.

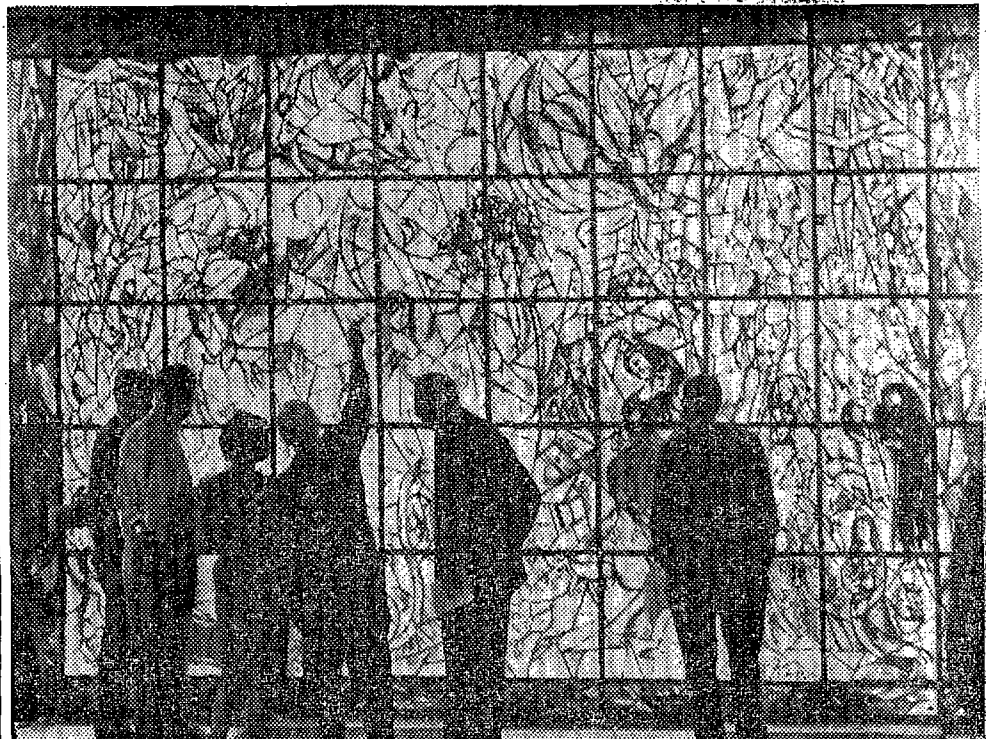

Mrs. Chagall later exercised a wife's prerogative. Was the master firm in his demands?

"He is determined, yes," she said, "but he will think about it."

The design for the 180-square-foot window was a gift by the Russian-born French artist to the memory of those who have fallen in the cause of peace.

The window itself was paid for by contributions from typists, translators, economists and the other workers at the United Nations. It is the staff's memorial to Dag Hammarskjöld and the 15 who died with him in an airplane crash in Africa two years ago. It will be unveiled by the Secretary General, U Thant, on Sept. 17.

Mr. Chagall wanted the sections of clear window on each side of the memorial blacked out, perhaps with marble. The bright light detracts from the design.

Leo Malania of the Secretary General's office, indicating the large black and white squares of the terrazzo floor, said, "He sees this as holes. He wants a kind of greenish carpet here, something neutral."

And "he sees this as holes," Mr. Malania continued, pointing to the openings for illumination in the ceiling. "They should be filled."

"What's going to hold them up there?" asked Esmond A. Van Name of maintenance and engineering, whose job is practicalities.

"He's a perfectionist," said Mr. Malania.

"I'm a perfectionist too," said Mr. Van Name.

Mr. Chagall continued his explanations in French. His hand swept in arcs. An elfin smile was on his face.

Press Release TA/1266
SPF/328

28 August 1964

JOHN MCDIARMID APPOINTED RESIDENT REPRESENTATIVE AND DIRECTOR OF SPECIAL FUND PROGRAMMES IN INDIA

John McDiarmid of the United States, a Senior Director of the United Nations Technical Assistance Board (TAB), has been designated the new TAB Resident Representative and Director of Special Fund Programmes in India. He replaces David Blickenstaff, who assumed similar functions in Malaysia in July (see press release TA/1260-SPF/319 of 13 July).

The appointment was announced today by David Owen, Executive Chairman of TAB, and Paul G. Hoffman, Managing Director of the United Nations Special Fund, who also indicated that Mr. McDiarmid would arrive in New Delhi on 23 September to take up his new duties.

The programme which Mr. McDiarmid will co-ordinate in India is the largest single country programme carried out by the United Nations family.

The Special Fund alone is assisting India with 27 pre-investment projects which will involve an over-all expenditure of about $91 million over the next five years. Of this amount, the Government of India will provide $65 million and the Special Fund will spend some $26 million. The largest expenditures will be made for assistance to six regional engineering colleges, the development of the National Aeronautical Laboratory in Bangalore and a survey of potential hydro-power sites.

The Executing Agencies for these projects are, respectively, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, the International Civil Aviation Organization and the United Nations. Other Special Fund projects are being carried out by the International Labour Organisation, the Food and Agriculture Organization, the World Health Organization, the World Meteorological Organization and the International Telecommunication Union.

These eight international organizations and the International Atomic Energy Agency are also carrying out technical assistance projects in India under the Expanded Programme of Technical Assistance (EPTA).

Between 1950, when EPTA was established, and the end of 1963, a total of $22 million was spent to give advisory assistance and to provide training facilities in support of India's development plans.

The expenditure for 1963-64 is expected to total $4.1 million with the greatest share being used for assistance in the fields of statistics, industrial development and productivity, fisheries development, the strengthening of technological institutions, science teaching and research, animal production and nutrition, and the improvement of public health facilities.

In 1963, the services of 134 international experts were made available to India and 104 fellowships for training abroad were awarded to Indian nationals. At the same time, the Programme drew on the donor facilities of India to an even greater degree, recruiting 136 Indian nationals to work as experts in other developing countries and sending 136 fellows to train in Indian institutions.

Biographical Data

Mr. McDiarmid has been with the United Nations since 1946, serving for several years as Deputy (and for one year as Acting) Director of Personnel, and from 1959 to the present as the Senior Director of the Technical Assistance Board. Before joining the United Nations, he pursued a career in education and government, specializing in political science and public administration.

Mr. McDiarmid was, in 1945-46, an Associate Professor of Political Science at Northwestern University, and between 1938 and 1942 an Associate Professor of Public Administration at the University of Southern California.

His service with the United States Government included assignments with the Civil Service Commission in Washington and with the Bureau of Manpower Utilization.

He received his B.A. and M.A. degrees in Government from Texas Christian University and his Ph. D. in Political Science and Public Administration from the University of Chicago.

Dear Mr. U. Thant

Now that I am somewhat free from the fetters of official functions and enjoying a little rest in London I am writing to say how very kind it was of you to have given me the opportunity during my recent visit to the United States to review with you the latest problems in our part of the world in particular the confrontation policy of Indonesia towards Malaysia. I am extremely gratified that you are always keeping a watchful eye over these problems.

It is most exhilarating to note your deep understanding of Malaysia's position in this connection. Malaysia is always confident that your support would not be wanting in our efforts to preserve our sovereignty and integrity.

Finally, may I thank you most sincerely for the Lunch you kindly gave me at the United Nations Headquarters.

Prime Minister Rahman's UNCA luncheon - 31 July 1964

In his opening remarks Rahman said the US had offered long term credits for the purchase of arms "but does not want to be involved in our trouble with Indonesia and will remain neutral". There was now "a lull in the fighting." Malaysia had not brought its troubles to the UN because the time was not ripe.

In response to questions he said neither Malaysia nor Indonesia had sent in a full report on the situation to the UN yet but "once the report is in we hope the UN will intervene." He then added, in what appears to be something of a contradiction, that the UN had a lot of troubles on its shoulders, to which Malaysia did not want to add, "and though the time may come in the trouble when we will seek UN intervention at the moment we are not in any need of it."

(Before the lunch the Malaysian Ambassador was telling correspondents that Rahman would submit a report on Indonesian aggressions to the SG on Monday, and one of the reasons for this was that the Commonwealth Prime Ministers, in expressing "sympathy and support" for Malaysia, had asked that Malaysia give greater publicity to its case by making a report to the SG)

Rahman said Malaysia was "approaching some kind of understanding with the Philippines."

My Dear S.G.,

I must tell you how deeply touched I was by your kindness in having such an intimate reception in the midst of your very over-taxed work schedule as a "farewell" for me and Mrs. Caruthers.

It was most thoughtful and generous, indeed, and only further confirmed my profound admiration and affection for you personally.

I am sure it is no secret to you that there are some who work very close to you who call you "The Boss" (in most affectionate terms, I assure you). I should like to say that, even though I may be leaving your services, you will always be "The Boss" to me.

Please accept our warmest thanks.

C.V.,

Frank Corner informed me, during one of the Secco meetings on the Dominican Republic, that Prime Minister Holyoke would be in New York on 14 June 1965 and would very much like to see the Secretary-General. After consulting U Thant, I have informed Frank today that the Secretary-General will be at Yale all day on 14 June, but that he would like to offer dinner for the Prime Minister that evening, at 8 p.m. (to be over by 10 p.m. so that the Prime Minister may fly that evening to London).

Frank who, by the way, had indicated that he wished to organize a luncheon for the Prime Minister and the Secretary-General (which, of course, is not possible) will confirm re dinner.

My dear Mr. Secretary-General:

Thank you very much for your kind letter of May 25th.

I plan to leave for Berlin and then Moscow for a three week trip between July 5th and July 25th. I would be most delighted to come to pay my respects at any time to suit your convenience between next Wednesday, June 9th, and July 5th, with the one exception of June 18th on which day I must preside at the United Nations Association Board Meeting.

I sincerely hope that your always crowded schedule will permit a visit during this period, and I look forward to seeing you.

With best wishes.

Respectfully yours,

25 May 1965

Dear Rob,

Thank you for your kind letter of 20 May informing me that the United Nations Ball this year is being dedicated to the Twentieth Anniversary of the United Nations and particularly in support of International Co-operation Year.

I note that it is your wish that I should be the guest of honour. My own personal preference would, of course, be that the tradition already established be followed, by which the honoured guests include all the Permanent Representatives to the United Nations. However, this is a matter for you to decide.

I hope that some time during the next two or three weeks we may be able to get together and discuss the matter. Perhaps we might meet at luncheon on a day mutually convenient.

With kind regards,

Yours sincerely,

U Thant

My dear Mr. Secretary-General:

The UN Ball this year is being dedicated to the 20th Anniversary celebration of the United Nations, and particularly, in support of International Cooperation Year.

The Ball Committee, at its recent meeting, and with the unanimity which symbolized its enthusiasm, asked me to convey to you a cordial invitation to be the Guest of Honor. Heretofore, as you know, the honored guests consisted of all the Permanent Representatives to the United Nations. Of course these Ambassadors will once again be our honored guests in accordance with past tradition. However, the Ball Committee feels that this year, above all years, you should be asked to be the Guest of Honor, and I sincerely hope that you will accept this invitation.

The pressures under which you have been working are known and understood by all of us who work in and around the United Nations. For that reason I have been reluctant to burden you even with pleasant news about the work of the National Citizens' Commission and its twenty-eight committees in preparation for the White House Conference scheduled for November 29th - December 1st. If in the near future

In the meantime I am enclosing for your perusal a copy of the second issue of the ICY Newsletter which has been distributed to all the national organizations as well as to the working committees and commissioners of the NCC.

Please accept my most sincere expressions of high regard and appreciation for your labors.

On 12 February I discussed with Mr. Forest Murden the possibility of arranging a luncheon between Mr. Henry Ford and the Secretary-General. Such a luncheon, which would be of a small and intimate nature, would provide the Secretary-General with the double opportunity of (a) thanking Mr. Ford personally for the recent gift of the Ford Foundation to the International School; and (b) providing an opportunity for the Secretary-General to express personally to Mr. Ford his great interest in and his great hopes for the new Institute for Training and Research.

At Mr. Narasimhan's suggestion, I asked Mr. Murden to let us have five alternative dates upon which it would be convenient for Mr. Ford to lunch with the Secretary-General. Mr. Murden, who felt that Mr. Ford would be greatly pleased and flattered by the Secretary-General's invitation, thought that the most convenient dates would be sometime after the 17th March, at which time both he and I would be in New York.

Mr. Murden stated that Mr. Ford continues to be very much interested in the Institute. He feels that a small personal luncheon as proposed above would greatly contribute towards an eventual gift by the Ford Foundation to the Institute.

1. Today, Mr. Forrest Murden and I had a lengthy and most practical discussion on ways and means which might eventually serve to produce a contribution from Mr. Henry Ford, III and/or the Ford Foundation.

2. It was finally agreed that the best possible and in fact the only way of strengthening Henry Ford's present and not inconsiderable interest in the Institute would be for the Secretary-General to invite him to a small and intimate luncheon on a mutually acceptable date in the near future. Ideally, the luncheon should provide a completely private meeting of just the Secretary-General and Mr. Ford. If necessary, others might be brought in either for drinks beforehand or coffee afterwards. Alternatively, a somewhat larger luncheon might be envisaged but with a maximum of from five to ten persons.

3. In addition to providing a most appropriate opportunity for the Secretary-General to mention his great personal interest in the Institute, a luncheon as proposed would provide an ideal opportunity for the Secretary-General to thank Mr. Ford personally for his strong private support both for the Library and the International School. Mr. Murden is convinced that Mr. Ford would deeply appreciate a personal invitation from the Secretary-General and he is equally sure that with adequate prior briefing, which he himself would undertake to carry out, Mr. Ford would be most receptive to any personal request which the Secretary-General might feel able to make on behalf of the Institute.

4. If the Secretary-General would feel able to go along with this proposal, I should be happy to ascertain Mr. Ford's future movements from Mr. Murden so that a mutually acceptable date could be agreed upon.

memo from Mr Casson

Dear Secretary-General,

Allow me, now that the guests of Air Afrique's inaugural flight of 25 May, from Douala to New York, have returned to Africa, to tell you most sincerely how touched we were by the welcome you kindly gave us on 27 May at the Headquarters of the United Nations, the distinguished meeting-place of men and representatives of peoples.

The warmth of your welcome made a great impression among the delegates of the twelve African States participating in our inaugural journey. This testifies to the respect which we all feel for the eminent personality of the United Nations Secretary-General who has such weighty responsibilities at this juncture in the world's history.

Reiterating our sincere thanks, I beg you to accept, Sir, the assurances of my highest consideration.
