COMMISSION I General Provisions

Committee 1 Preamble, Purposes, and Principles

SUMMARY REPORT OF SEVENTH MEETING OF COMMITTEE I/1

Veterans Building, Room 303, May 16, 1945, 3:45 p.m.

The meeting was opened by the Chairman, Mr. Manuilsky (Ukrainian S.S.R.), at 3:45 p.m.

1. Ruling on Point of Order

The Chairman ruled that a request to give first consideration to a Declaration of the Rights of Man was out of order as this subject did not have priority over other aspects of Chapter II.

2. Discussion

The following delegates formally proposed the amendments of their respective countries to Chapter II of Dumbarton Oaks Proposals:

Uruguay (Cf. Doc. 215, I/1/10, May 11, 1945, Pages 35-36)

Czechoslovakia (Cf. Doc. 215, Page 28)

Cuba (Cf. Doc. 215, Page 28)

Peru (Cf. Doc. 215, Page 34)

Egypt (Cf. Doc. 215, Page 30)

Australia (Cf. Doc. 215, Page 25)

Brazil (Cf. Doc. 215, Page 26)

Belgium (Cf. Doc. 215, Page 25)

Ethiopia (Cf. Doc. 215, Page 31)

The Delegate of Cuba desired it made a matter of record that the "Declaration of the Duties and Rights of Nations" and the "Declaration of the International Duties of the Individual" were not at present insisted upon by his Delegation, but that note should be taken of the fact that the Cuban Delegation had made these specific suggestions and hoped that the Assembly of the world Organization would give them due consideration.

The Peruvian Delegate modified his Delegation's amendment to read as follows with reference to paragraph 1, Chapter II, of the Dumbarton Oaks Proposals:

"The organization is based on the respect for the personality, sovereignty, independence, juridical equality and territorial integrity of States, and the faithful fulfillment of International Treaties."

Several delegates referred to the necessity of incorporating in Chapter II an express undertaking that the world Organization should insure the territorial integrity and political independence of states members. Several delegates felt that the New Zealand amendment to this effect, introduced in relation to Chapter I, should more properly be considered in relation to Chapter II.

Various delegates felt that improvements in phraseology could be made in the text of Chapter II as it now stands. It was pointed out that the phraseology of paragraph 4 might leave it open to a member state to use force in some manner consistent with the purposes of the Organization but without securing the assent of the Organization to such use of force. It was felt, accordingly, that paragraph 4 should be reworded so as to provide that force should not be used by any member state except by direction of the world Organization. It became apparent during the discussion that there were numerous discrepancies in meaning between the definitive English text of Chapter II and the French translation of this text.

One delegate felt that under the Dumbarton Oaks Proposals states members of the world Organization would not receive equal treatment, and that therefore the words "sovereign equality" in paragraph 1 of Chapter II were somewhat ironic; it was suggested that the word "sovereign" be deleted. It was further observed, with respect to paragraph 2, that the undertaking of members to fulfil the obligations assumed by them in accordance with the Charter was redundant; and an additional redundancy was pointed out in paragraph 3, it being noted that since members were to settle their disputes by peaceful means, international peace and security could not thus be endangered. Finally, it was suggested that the phraseology of the Charter should rather be along the line that "all states must" abide by the provisions of the Charter and not that "all members shall." The broad principles enunciated in the Charter should apply universally throughout the world and should not be restricted only to members of the Organization.

3. Adjournment

The session was adjourned at 5:30 p.m., the Chairman noting that those still on the list of speakers would be allowed to present their views at the ninth session.

GENERAL

ADDITIONAL PROPOSALS ON THE DUMBARTON OAKS PROPOSALS
SUBMITTED BY THE DELEGATION OF CUBA, MAY 3, 1945

The Delegation of Cuba submits to the Conference for its consideration the following:

DRAFT PROPOSAL ON AMENDMENTS TO SECTION A OF CHAPTER VI

WHEREAS:

1. It is advisable to increase the number of members of the Council to 15, in order that not only the delegates of the Great Powers may be represented on it, but also, in proportion, the representatives of the various regional civilizations and interests;

2. The Dumbarton Oaks Proposals, in establishing two categories of nations, some with the right to permanent seats on the Council and others without such right, create a difference contrary to the principle of juridical equality of all the states, a principle which has been and is one of the fundamental bases of international life;

3. Although it is proper to recognize the need that certain nations, owing to their greater power, form continuously part of the Council, for the latter's decisions will thereby have greater force and its action will be more effective, their seats on the Council should not be permanent, inasmuch as this would render the Charter too rigid, but rather subject indefinitely to re-election, and their selection should be made in conformity with a general rule and not with a mere individual enumeration;

4. The Council should properly be integrated;

(a) By seven states which have assumed special obligations for the maintenance of international peace and security and which have the necessary resources to fulfil such obligations, which states may be re-elected indefinitely in order to permit their continued cooperation in the Council;

(b) By eight states elected from among the remaining members of the Organization, which cannot be re-elected for a successive term, in order that the rotation may permit all states to participate in the functions of the Council.

5. This rule, in addition to eliminating the objection above set forth, for under it the distinction between members which are eligible for re-election and those not eligible is based on a general rule founded on solid reasons and not on a mere circumstantial and specific selection, has also the advantage that if the group of present Great Powers should change in the future, as has happened in the past, such changes can be recognized and accepted without the need of effecting an amendment of the Charter of the World Organization;

6. Notwithstanding the foregoing statements, and as an advisable and even necessary measure for the preliminary period during which the new Organization will inaugurate its functions, precisely in the difficult period of transition from war to peace, there should be designated now, through a transitory provision added to the Charter, the nations which are to occupy the seats subject to re-election and there should be included among them China, the United States, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland and the Union of the Soviet Socialist Republics, in addition to others which it may be deemed advisable to select.

IT IS RESOLVED:

That Section A of Chapter VI be drafted as follows:

Section A. Composition.

1. The Council shall be composed of fifteen members, designated in the following manner:

- (a) Seven of the members shall be elected from among the states which have assumed special obligations for the maintenance of international peace and security and which have the necessary resources to fulfil such obligations. These members may be re-elected indefinitely.
- (b) The other members shall be elected from among the rest of the nations belonging to the Organization. These members shall not be eligible for immediate re-election.
- (c) All members shall be elected for a term of two years. One half of those included under paragraph (b) shall be replaced each year; and of those included under paragraph (a) three shall be replaced one year, and four the following year. The term of tenure of each member shall be determined at the time of the first election.

2. All the members of the Council shall be elected by the General Assembly, which will also determine the special obligations which are to be assumed by the seven members mentioned under paragraph (a) of the preceding numeral and their capacity to perform such obligations.

Transitory provision related to the preceding article

By unanimous agreement among all the members of the World Organization, there shall be elected, at the time of signing the Covenant which creates it, for the seven seats included under paragraph (a), No. 1 of Section A, Chapter VI of this Charter, the following nations: China, the United States of America, France, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, and (here come the names of the two other states to be designated).

The remaining eight members shall be elected by the General Assembly at its first session.

ADDITIONAL PROPOSALS ON THE DUMBARTON OAKS PROPOSALS,
SUBMITTED BY THE DELEGATION OF CUBA, MAY 3, 1945

The Cuban Delegation submits to the Conference, for its examination, the following:

DRAFT PROPOSAL CONCERNING AMENDMENTS TO SECTION C OF CHAPTER VI, PARAGRAPHS 2 AND 3

WHEREAS:

1.- Section C of Chapter VI, in establishing the regulations concerning voting within the Council, determines that its decisions should be made by the vote of seven members, including the concurring votes of the five permanent members, that is to say, all of the Powers that are termed Great;

2.- With this ruling, it becomes possible for a single one of the Great Powers to prevent any action of the Council, even when all its other members are in agreement, so that it is the same as if the rule of unanimity had been adopted, which had already given such unsatisfactory results in the workings of the League of Nations, without there being any obstacle to this in the fact that the Dumbarton Oaks Proposals determine that a State that is a party to a dispute must abstain from voting, since it may, without being a party to a dispute, yet be directly interested in it;

3.- One of the essential principles of democracy is the rule of the will of the majority, and if indeed in some cases it is necessary to demand that there be qualified majorities, in order to give more force to the decisions adopted, one should yet never come to requiring unanimity, because this entails that one vote has more actual power than the concurring votes of all the other members of the body concerned;

4.- If it is proper that the great powers, on account of their greater responsibility in the maintenance of peace, should enjoy special privileges when it comes to making important decisions, they must yet conform, in their international dealings, with the principle of majority votes, and both these principles can be brought into agreement by determining that such decisions should be reached by a double voting procedure, that is to say by a majority vote of the group of Great Powers, on the one hand, and a majority vote of the other States that are members of the Council on the other hand; since, in this manner, the principle of the juridical equality of all Nations would be respected, the maintenance of which is indispensable to the harmonious development of international dealings, and at the same time a more sincere and cordial co-operation of the smaller powers would be obtained;

IT IS RESOLVED THAT:

Paragraphs 2 and 3 of Section C of Chapter VI of the Statutes of the new World Organization should be worded in the following manner:

2.- The Decisions of the Council should be made by an affirmative vote of two-thirds of its members, except for decisions of mere procedure, where a simple majority would be sufficient. In doubtful cases, the Council, by a vote of two-thirds of its members, will decide whether the matter on hand is or is not one of mere procedure.

3.- In matters concerning the maintenance of peace and international security, to which Chapter VIII refers, decisions must be made by a vote of two-thirds of the seven States mentioned in paragraph a) of subsection 1 of Section A of Chapter VI, and by a vote of two-thirds of the other members of the Council.
