#1 PRIORITY

To: CDC (through O/DSG)

Please find attached for your approval the first report of the Secretary-General on the Implementation of the PSC Framework for the DRC and the region.

The report provides an update on progress on the implementation of the PSC Framework, and the establishment of regional benchmarks. It notes that the signing of the Framework has contributed to containing the crisis in eastern DRC, although the situation remains tense.

In the Observations section the SG welcomes the establishment by the Congolese Government of the National Oversight Mechanism and encourages the swift development of national benchmarks. He also encourages the signatories of the Framework to develop regional benchmarks in a manner that builds confidence between them.

The report is due to the Council on 28 June, concurrently with the SG's report on MONUSCO. The report was prepared by DPA in close consultation with O/SESG GL, DPKO and other stakeholders.

Report of the Secretary-General on the implementation of the Peace, Security and Cooperation Framework for the Democratic Republic of the Congo and the region¹

28/06/13

I - Introduction

1. The present report is submitted pursuant to Security Council resolution 2098 (2013), by which the Council requested that I submit a report on the implementation of the commitments under the Peace, Security and Cooperation Framework for the Democratic Republic of the Congo and the region ("the PSC Framework"). The report covers developments since the adoption of resolution 2098 (2013), describes recent regional peace and security initiatives in relation to eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo, progress on the implementation of the PSC Framework, and on the establishment of regional benchmarks and appropriate follow-up measures, as referred to in paragraphs 4 and 5 of resolution 2098 (2013).

II - Recent developments

2. The signing of the PSC Framework in Addis Ababa on 24 February 2013, and the diplomatic and political initiatives that it inspired, has raised expectations that the protracted crisis in eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo could be resolved. However, the situation remains tense with episodes of deadly fighting indicative of its continuing volatility.

Deleted: overcome

3. The humanitarian impact of the crisis in the Democratic Republic of the Congo and in the region remains alarming. In the Democratic Republic of the Congo, the number of internally displaced persons rose to more than 2.6 million by early 2013, up from 1.8 million in early 2012. No longer limited to North and South Kivu, the crisis expanded to parts of Maniema and Katanga provinces in 2012 and has had a renewed regional impact with waves of Congolese refugees arriving in Uganda, Rwanda and Burundi on a regular basis since early 2012. Currently, some 110,000 Congolese refugees are in Uganda, 58,000 in Rwanda, 40,000 in Burundi and 63,000 in Tanzania. Meanwhile, the Democratic Republic of the Congo is also host to some 140,000 refugees, including from Burundi, Rwanda and Angola. Most recently, the deterioration of the security situation in the Central African Republic since December 2012 has forced some 37,000 people from that country to seek refuge in the Equateur and Orientale provinces of the Democratic Republic of the Congo. On a positive note, the Governments of the Democratic Republic of the Congo and Rwanda, as well UNHCHR representatives met in Kigali from 20-21 June to review the status of Rwandan refugees in the Democratic Republic of the Congo. While both countries have yet to address some critical issues, notably on identification and sensitization of refugees, this is an important step towards addressing a long-standing aspect of the crisis.

Report of the Secretary-General on the United Nations Organization Stabilization Mission in the Democratic Republic of the Congo

I. Introduction

1. The present report is submitted pursuant to Security Council resolution 2098 (2013). In paragraph 34 of that resolution, the Council requested that I report every three months on the situation on the ground in the Democratic Republic of the Congo, including on the implementation of national commitments under the Peace, Security and Cooperation Framework for the Democratic Republic of the Congo and the Region (PSC Framework); progress made by MONUSCO in the implementation of its mandate, including the transfer of activities to the United Nations Country Team; the review of relevant planning documents; and implications of the possible operations of the Intervention Brigade for the safety and security of United Nations personnel and facilities. The present report covers developments that occurred since the issuance of my report of 15 February 2013 (S/2013/96).

II. Major developments

Security situation

2. In North Kivu, the most significant development during the reporting period was the split between competing Mouvement du 23 mars (M23) factions respectively led by the rebel movement's commander, Sultani Makenga and his rival, Bosco Ntaganda. Full-scale fighting between these factions erupted on 24 February in Rutshuru town. On 27 February, Makenga issued a communiqué accusing the movement's president, Jean-Marie Runiga Lugerero, of treason and corruption and relieving him of his functions. A further communiqué on 1 March called on M23 forces to apprehend rival senior leaders, namely Runiga, Ntaganda and Baudouin Ngaruye. On 7 March, Bertrand Bisimwa was announced by the Makenga-led faction as the M23's new president.

3. Factional fighting continued for several weeks. About 1,000 people were displaced and at least five civilians were reportedly killed and 35 others wounded during the fighting. Other armed groups, including the Forces démocratiques pour la libération du Rwanda (FDLR) attempted to occupy positions abandoned by the M23, but were largely unsuccessful. The Forces armées de la République démocratiques du Congo (FARDC) proved more successful, regaining control of Mabenga, Kalengera and Rubare. On 16 March, Ntaganda, Ngaruye and Runiga, with several hundred combatants, fled to Rwanda, following their defeat by the Makenga-led faction. On 18 March, Bosco Ntaganda turned himself in to the United States Embassy in Kigali, and requested to be transferred to the International Criminal Court (ICC), in The Hague. On 22 March, with the support of the United States, Dutch and Rwandan Governments, Bosco Ntaganda was transferred to the ICC.

4. Following the decision of the Security Council, in resolution 2098 (2013), to establish the Intervention Brigade, the M23 displayed increasingly aggressive behaviour. On 8 April, the M23 blocked six MONUSCO civilian-contracted trucks at Kiwanja and Katale, claiming the cargo contained weapons destined for the Intervention Brigade or the FARDC. Following a show of force by MONUSCO, the M23 released the trucks. M23 representatives also made repeated media statements, threatening the Intervention Brigade and sent open letters to the United Nations and the parliaments of troop-contributing countries of the Brigade. Furthermore, the M23 held rallies throughout Rutshuru territory, inciting the population to demonstrate against the Brigade. To avoid having to participate in these demonstrations, large numbers of civilians fled to Goma between 8 and 12 April. Throughout April, there were reports of killings, abductions, lootings and rapes perpetrated by the M23 in Rutshuru town and Kiwanja.

5. Renewed fighting erupted between the M23 and the FARDC near Mutaho, about 10 kilometres from Goma, between 20 and 22 May, apparently initiated by the M23. Both sides employed artillery in the clashes and the FARDC's attack helicopters engaged M23 positions. M23 mortar fire hit a residential area in Goma and several rockets struck areas near the Mugunga III camp for Internally Displaced Persons (IDPs). The MONUSCO Defence Plan for Goma was activated, including placing quick reaction forces on alert. At least four civilians, including three children were killed as a result of the clashes and nearly 11,000 civilians were displaced. After failing to advance and seize new positions, on 22 May, the M23 spokesperson announced a unilateral ceasefire.

6. Other armed groups remained active in the province, regrouping, recruiting and clashing with the FARDC. Violence erupted from 27 February to 5 March, between the Alliance des patriotes pour un Congo libre et souverain (APCLS) and the FARDC in Kitchanga, in Masisi territory, resulting in the displacement of 5,000 civilians who sought refuge around MONUSCO's forward base in the area. Insecurity also persisted in the Grand Nord region, with a worrying increase in abductions. During the reporting period, the Allied Defence Forces/ National Army for the Liberation of Uganda (ADF/NALU) and Mayi-Mayi groups reportedly abducted 112 persons in Beni territory. Between 19 and 21 April alone, the ADF/NALU abducted 46 civilians, including 11 children on the Kamango-Beni-Mbau axis.

7. The security situation in South Kivu remained precarious throughout the reporting period. Armed groups, including Mayi-Mayi Yakutumba, Mayi-Mayi Nyatura, Mayi-Mayi Mayele, Mayi-Mayi Bwasakala and Mayi-Mayi Mulumba continued negotiations with the FARDC on integration, amidst ongoing recruitment to swell their ranks. Mayi-Mayi Raia Mutomboki factions remained active in Kabare, Walungu, Mwenga and Shabunda territories, after having pushed the FDLR south toward Mwenga and Uvira territories. There were continuing reports of infiltration of the Forces nationales pour la libération du Burundi (FNL) elements through various crossing points in Uvira territory. There were also persistent reports, during the period under review, of attempts by the M23 to destabilize the province through proxies or alliances with local armed groups.

8. In Maniema, Mayi-Mayi Raia Mutomboki groups expanded their presence from Shabunda in South Kivu into Punia territory around mineral rich sites. On 17 and 22 February, the FARDC retook control of Kasese and Punia villages from Mayi-Mayi Raia Mutomboki. After being pushed southwards, Mayi-Mayi Raia Mutomboki elements skirmished with the FARDC along the Kasese-Shabunda-Walikale triangle, leading to population displacements.

9. In Katanga, the Mayi-Mayi group led by Gédéon Kyungu Mutanga, known as "Kata Katanga", intensified attacks against the FARDC and State authorities in Pweto, Manono and Moba territories. The group extended its reach north towards Kalemie and south towards Lubumbashi, while promoting a secessionist agenda. On 23 March, a group of over 300 Mayi-Mayi Kata Katanga elements launched an attack on Lubumbashi. According to provincial authorities, 27 persons were killed and 50 wounded during the incident. Despite the intervention of the FARDC, a large group of Mayi-Mayi forcefully entered the MONUSCO compound. Following negotiations, they surrendered their weapons to MONUSCO personnel and were subsequently handed over to government authorities. With support from partners of the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF), 40 children were separated from the apprehended group of Mayi-Mayi. The 23 March incident prompted President Kabila to replace the commander of the 6th Military Region as well as the provincial heads of the police and the intelligence services.

10. In Orientale province, despite a slight decrease in attacks compared to the previous reporting period, small and mobile residual elements of the Lord's Resistance Army (LRA) remained particularly active in Haut-Uélé district, targeting the Dungu-Duru axis and the Bangadi-Ngilima area. On 21 March in Digba, about 45 kilometres north of Ango, in Bas-Uélé, a group of 27 LRA abductees comprising 15 women and 12 children were released by the group.

Deleted: ed of

11. In southern Irumu district, efforts to integrate elements of the Forces de résistance patriotiques en Ituri (FRPI) into the FARDC were unsuccessful. On 1 March, the FARDC launched a military operation against the FRPI at Medu, Malu and Songolo, and took control of these areas. In northern Aru territory, a new armed group called the Forces de défense de la population locale de la Province orientale (FDPLPO) targeted positions of the FARDC and the Police nationale congolaise (PNC). In Mambasa territory, Mayi-Mayi Morgan and FARDC deserter "Colonel" Hilaire Kombi Paluku carried out attacks against civilians in artisanal gold mining areas.

Humanitarian situation

12. New humanitarian needs arose, mainly due to continued fighting in North Kivu, increased militia activity in Katanga and Maniema provinces, a continuous spread of epidemics, notably cholera in Lubumbashi, and some 40,000 refugees fleeing from the Central African Republic (CAR) into Equateur and Orientale province. The total estimated number of IDPs stood at 2.6 million. An increase was registered in North Kivu, where displacement rose by 15 per cent to a total of 920,000 caused by armed groups' activity and the resulting FARDC response. While 428,000 people remained displaced in Orientale province, including 320,000 as a result of LRA activities, modest return movements and resettlements in urban centres, including Dungu, Faradje and Niangara were observed during the reporting period. In Maniema, as a result of increased FDLR activity and Mayi-Mayi group activity, over 55,000 additional persons were displaced between February and April, bringing the total to 214,700 displaced as of 30 April. Also, during the reporting period, acute malnutrition rates in South Kivu, Katanga and the Kasais provinces, were higher than the national 10 per cent emergency threshold.

13. Assistant Secretary-General for Humanitarian Affairs and Deputy Emergency Relief Coordinator Kyung-wha Kang visited Goma and Bukavu from 27 to 30 May to assess the situation of IDPs and exchange views with MONUSCO on humanitarian and protection issues related to the Intervention Brigade.

14. As of 12 June, the Humanitarian Action Plan for 2013, estimated at $ 893 million, was funded at 39 per cent. In March, the Humanitarian Coordinator allocated $ 2.5 million from the Common Humanitarian Fund 'Reserve' to respond to the needs of 54,000 IDPs in Pweto territory in Katanga, while a $ 15 million

Central Emergency Response Fund (CERF) appeal was launched in May to respond to the needs of refugees from the CAR. An $ 8 million CERF proposal was approved for refugees fleeing from the CAR, while a $ 4 million CERF proposal was submitted by UNICEF and the World Health Organization (WHO) for urgent immunization against measles.

Political developments

15. On 19 March, the Supreme Court of Justice (SCJ) confirmed that the law establishing the Constitutional Court originally adopted in 2011 was in conformity with the Constitution. President Kabila returned the law to Parliament recommending a review. On 11 April, the Senate proposed that the President sign the law as adopted and that a separate draft law be submitted to amend it.

16. On 15 April, the National Assembly rejected a motion of no confidence against the Government of Prime Minister Augustin Matata Ponyo tabled by an opposition member of the National Assembly, alleging violations of the Constitution and the mismanagement of public finances.

17. On 18 April, Prime Minister Matata Ponyo held a press conference to review the 12-month record of his Government. He highlighted improvements in the economy, which he attributed to rigorous fiscal management and improved governance. On 9 May, the Government released a report outlining the achievements of its first year in office. Other significant political developments are reported as part of the implementation of the national commitments under the PSC Framework, in paragraphs 62 to 76 of the present report.

Regional developments

18. Talks between the Government of the Democratic Republic of the Congo and the M23 continued in Kampala but made little headway.

19. From 22 to 24 May, I conducted a joint visit to the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Rwanda and Uganda with World Bank President Yong Kim in support of the PSC Framework. On 26 May, I co-chaired with the President of the African Union (AU) Commission, the first meeting of the regional oversight mechanism of the PSC Framework. I have reported further on this trip and the Kampala talks in my report on the implementation of the PSC Framework.

III. Implementation of the mandate of MONUSCO

Protection of civilians

20. As of April, the Protection Cluster, led by the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), recorded over 10,600 protection incidents in North and South Kivu.

21. MONUSCO employed a variety of means to address these developments, including the use of quick reaction forces, as well as static and mobile patrols. MONUSCO's priority continued to be securing strategic positions in and around Goma, especially during the factional M23 fighting. In order to prepare for the deployment of the Intervention Brigade, MONUSCO closed four forward bases and repositioned these forces to strengthen defences for Goma. In addition, nine mobile bases were deployed in Ituri district to deter attacks by the FRPI and Mayi-Mayi Simba. During the reporting period, Formed Police Units (FPUs) also carried out 224 patrols around IDP camps in North Kivu. Demining activities also continued to contribute to protection of civilians efforts.

Deleted: .

22. Between February and April, MONUSCO deployed 30 newly recruited Community Liaison Assistants (CLAs) in South Kivu and Katanga, bringing the total number to 202, to support 75 forward bases and to help identify protection requirements. During the reporting period, 23 Joint Protection Teams (JPTs) were deployed in North Kivu, South Kivu and Orientale province to assess the security situation and to identify protection needs. MONUSCO's 25 Community Alert Networks (CANs) enabled 225 isolated communities in North Kivu, South Kivu and Orientale province to contact local authorities or the Mission in case of threat.

Mission deployment and operations against armed groups

23. MONUSCO made preparations for the deployment of the Intervention Brigade. Pre-deployment technical missions and multi-disciplinary teams specialized in training on human rights and protection of civilians were dispatched to the countries contributing troops to the Intervention Brigade. Planning for future coordination with humanitarian actors also began. The Brigade's headquarters was established in Goma on 23 April. MONUSCO concentrated the South African battalion in Goma prior to its transfer to the Intervention Brigade and the Uruguayan Force Reserve battalion was deployed in the locations vacated by the South African battalion to fill the vacuum. By 17 June, 1,232 Tanzanian troops and 808 South African troops were deployed as part of the Intervention Brigade, while the deployment of Malawian troops is expected to take place by mid-July. With the deployment of the Intervention Brigade to Sake, in North Kivu, it is estimated that 95 per cent of MONUSCO's military component will be deployed in eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo.

24. A number of joint operations were conducted with the FARDC. Joint Standing Combat Deployments (SCDs), joint riverine patrols on Lake Kivu and training in the use of MONUSCO attack helicopters in FARDC defence plans were undertaken. MONUSCO, in strict compliance with the Human Rights Due Diligence Policy on United Nations support to non-United Nations security forces (HRDDP), continued to provide support to the FARDC in operations targeting armed groups in the Kivus, Orientale province, and Equateur. In Katanga, MONUSCO undertook extensive patrolling in Kongolo, Bendera, Kalemie and Moba to protect populations from the activities of Mayi-Mayi groups.

Safety and Security of United Nations personnel within the context of possible operations of MONUSCO Intervention Brigade

25. MONUSCO undertook a full security risk assessment and review of its existing security measures and operating procedures during the reporting period. The aim of the exercise was to ensure the mitigation of risks associated with possible operations by the Intervention Brigade or any counter measures by the armed groups and their implications for the safety and security of United Nations personnel, assets and facilities.

26. The threat to United Nations personnel emanating from armed groups in eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo, especially in the Kivus, was assessed to include the risk of deliberate attacks, kidnappings and hijackings as well as risks associated with the presence of unexploded ordnance and mines. MONUSCO and the United Nations Country Team updated operational plans to minimize the risks to humanitarian and development personnel and programmes.

27. The threats and the security risks confronting United Nations staff, premises and operations remained low in the western part of the country. The situation in the East was markedly different, with more than 51 security incidents recorded between 15 February and 8 May. On 23 March, the Mission's regional office in Lubumbashi, although not a direct target, suffered extensive material damage when Mayi-Mayi Kata Katanga attacked the city. Following this incident, MONUSCO adopted new defensive measures and procedures for all its regional offices, including measures to address situations of armed combatants seeking refuge or surrendering at United Nations facilities. An attempt by armed men on 21 April to break into the MONUSCO camp at Munigi, north of Goma, left one attacker dead. On 7 May, a MONUSCO military convoy was ambushed by armed assailants 18 kilometres from Bukavu in South Kivu. One MONUSCO soldier was injured and later died. The FARDC arrested two suspects on 8 May; and further investigations are ongoing to ascertain the motives of the attack.

Monitoring the implementation of the arms embargo

28. MONUSCO continued preparations for reinforcing its surveillance capabilities, including the deployment of unarmed, unmanned aerial systems (UUAS). The technical assessment of proposals for deployment of these systems is underway. Efforts were made to monitor movements along the eastern border areas in the Kivus. Maritime radars installed on the shores of Lake Kivu enabled a better understanding of movements and activities on the Lake. During the reporting period, MONUSCO received reports of alleged external support to the M23.

Disarmament, demobilization and reintegration/disarmament, demobilization, repatriation, resettlement and reintegration

29. During the reporting period, foreign combatants and dependants from Congolese and foreign armed groups voluntarily participated in the MONUSCO Disarmament, Demobilization, Repatriation, Resettlement and Reintegration (DDRRR) programme. This included 48 foreign elements from the M23, among whom 46 were verified to be Rwandan, one Ugandan, and one Kenyan. With regard to the FDLR, 119 foreign combatants, 123 of their dependants and five children associated with armed groups voluntarily participated in the MONUSCO DDRRR programme. In addition, 720 Congolese members of armed groups were received by MONUSCO, among whom there were 242 M23 members and 89 members of the FDLR.

Deleted: were

30. In May 2013, the Government of the Democratic Republic of the Congo took a first step towards establishing a new national programme by preparing a draft of a single and overarching DDRRR plan for both foreign and Congolese armed groups. A strategic working group on DDRRR was established between MONUSCO and the United Nations Country Team to support this plan, which is expected to handle an estimated caseload of 14,000 Congolese beneficiaries and 3,000 foreign elements. Adequate funding remains a major challenge for this plan.

Mine action

31. During the reporting period, the United Nations Mine Action Service (UNMAS) removed 1, 477 unexploded ordnance and disposed of 2,500 rounds of small arms ammunition. Moreover, UNMAS delivered mine risk education to 24,565 people. In May, in direct support to MONUSCO's operations, UNMAS coordinated a nation-wide landmine contamination survey with a view to providing an accurate threat assessment in the Mission's area of operation. UNMAS also continued to support MONUSCO in ammunition and weapons safety management.

Security sector reform

32. Through the good offices of my Special Representative, MONUSCO continued to advocate with government officials and to offer the support of the United Nations for the reform of the security and justice sectors, especially army reform, which President Kabila identified as a major priority of the Government in his New Year's address. MONUSCO also continued efforts aimed at strengthening coordination among national authorities and international partners on these reform efforts.

33. On 10 May, the Supreme Council of Defence, chaired by President Kabila, endorsed a General Training Plan for the FARDC with a view to implementing the roadmap for the creation of a Rapid Reaction Force within the FARDC. MONUSCO is supporting the FARDC in setting up a Battalion Tactical Training Centre in Kisangani, which will carry out a six-month training and mentoring programme for the Rapid Reaction Force. On 21 May, Foreign Affairs Minister Tshibanda briefed the diplomatic corps in Kinshasa on the Government's plans for security sector reform, in particular army and police reform.

34. During the reporting period, MONUSCO completed a one-month refresher training course for the FARDC 321st battalion in the Luberizi Camp, 80 kilometres south of Bukavu in South Kivu, which deployed back to North Kivu. This battalion was instrumental in preventing M23 advances during the clashes of 20 and 22 May in the Goma area. MONUSCO also conducted training for other FARDC units deployed in Ituri, North Kivu and South Kivu, with the aim of enhancing their operational capacities. Under the above-mentioned training plan and roadmap, MONUSCO plans to support the FARDC in establishing three training centres in Luberizi and Rwindi, North Kivu and in Rwampara, Ituri district.

35. MONUSCO and other international partners have also continued to provide technical assistance and financial support for the on-going training of new FARDC recruits, in compliance with the HRDDP.

Police

36. In the area of police reform, MONUSCO police experts, under the auspices of the national Executive Secretariat of the Steering Committee of Police Reform, participated in the preparation of two draft decrees on the Organization and Functioning of a General Directorate for Police Schools and Training Centres, and PNC Provincial Commissariats.

37. In March, MONUSCO conducted basic training for a total of 973 PNC cadets, including 43 women, in the Kapalata and Kasangulu training centres in Orientale province and Bas-Congo, respectively. Also in March, specialized training was offered in investigative techniques for sexual and gender-based violence to 134 PNC officers from the Criminal Investigation Department, in community policing to 837 PNC trainees, and in computer technology to 100 senior officers. A refresher training course in crowd control techniques was carried out in Mbuji-Mayi, Kasai Oriental for 264 PNC personnel, including 20 women. MONUSCO also developed a project for the training and equipment of a police detachment for the security of IDP camps and another project on the expansion of the capacity of the PNC Mugunga Training Centre from 500 to 1,000 trainees a year.

38. On 8 April, the Government adopted a USD 800 million Five-Year Action Plan (2012-2016), based on the Long-Term Strategic Framework (2010-2025) for police reform. On 3 June, President Kabila promulgated the Police Service Act.

Justice and correction institutions

39. MONUSCO and United Nations agencies continued to assist in the reform of the justice system, including making progress towards the finalization of the United Nations Multi-Year Joint Justice Programme.

40. The United Nations provided substantial support for strengthening the criminal justice system in eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo in order to fight impunity for sexual violence and other serious crimes. This assistance encompassed the provision of infrastructure, organizing legal clinics and supporting investigations. With MONUSCO's support, by March, 115 out of 120 civilian justice officials and 19 out of 23 military justice officials had resumed office in Goma, after having fled the city when it was occupied by the M23 in November 2012.

41. Support provided for the deployment of mobile courts resulted in 234 cases being heard and 54 judgments rendered by civilian and military judges. Support was also provided for the conduct of 82 judicial inspections of detention cells, resulting in the regularization of 322 cases of irregular detentions and 142 releases. Cases of pre-trial, prolonged and arbitrary detention were also reduced due to advocacy and enhanced prison record management. MONUSCO also received four additional requests for support from its Prosecution Support Cells during the reporting period, bringing the total number of such requests made since 2011 to 32.

42. MONUSCO trained 84 prison staff from North Kivu and South Kivu on prison administration, security and operations. These staff will be deployed to the prison facilities newly constructed in these provinces under the Government's Stabilization and Reconstruction plan for War-affected Areas (STAREC). A six-month course to train 100 military officers to be deployed in military prisons commenced on 4 March in Kinshasa.

Human Rights

43. The Mission continued to investigate serious allegations of human rights abuses. As mentioned in paragraph 6, from 27 February to 5 March, APCLS combatants and soldiers of the 812th FARDC Regiment clashed in Kitchanga, in Masisi territory, North Kivu, using heavy weaponry. During the clashes that saw both sides targeting the civilian population, at least 27 civilians, including ten children and two women were reportedly killed and 89 wounded. Two women, including a minor, were also reportedly raped by FARDC soldiers before being killed. More than 500 houses were reportedly looted and/or destroyed; hospitals and property belonging to humanitarian organizations were also damaged.

44. During the reporting period, several killings and other human rights violations were reportedly committed by combatants in clashes between the FARDC and Mayi-Mayi Raia Mutomboki in Shabunda, Walungu and Mwenga territories, South Kivu.

45. The human rights situation in Katanga remained of great concern. Mayi-Mayi Kata Katanga elements were reportedly responsible for serious human rights violations, including rape, killings, enforced disappearance and cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment in Mitwaba, Manono, Pweto and Malemba Nkulu. Serious human rights violations were also reportedly committed by FARDC soldiers in the scope of operations against Mayi-Mayi groups. MONUSCO investigations concluded that PNC agents and FARDC soldiers used disproportionate force against the Mayi-Mayi elements who attempted to attack Lubumbashi on 23 March. This resulted in at least three civilians killed and six injured.

46. On 13 March, the United Nations Joint Human Rights Office (UNJHRO) issued a report on the human rights situation in detention centres across the Democratic Republic of the Congo, stating that 101 persons had died in detention in 2012. The deaths were mainly caused by poor conditions such as overcrowding, malnutrition, limited access to health care, torture and ill-treatment, as well as the lack of accountability of the prison system.

47. During the reporting period, there were several positive developments in the fight against impunity. These include: the transfer of Bosco Ntaganda to the ICC on 22 March; the transfer from Kinshasa to Bukavu, on 2 April, of Lt. Colonel Bedi Mobuli Engnagenla alias "Colonel 106" to stand trial before the Military Court of South Kivu for war crimes and crimes against humanity; the reopening of judicial proceedings against Cobra Matata of the FRPI by the Ituri Military Garrison on 18 April; and the resumption of the trial of General Kakwavu for war crimes and crimes against humanity at the High Military Court in Kinshasa on 19 April. At least four FARDC soldiers were convicted during the period under review for acts of torture.

48. On 8 May, MONUSCO published a report on human rights violations committed by FARDC soldiers and M23 combatants, including those committed in and around Minova, between 15 November and 2 December 2012. MONUSCO continued to advocate for the prosecution of FARDC soldiers responsible for the mass rape of women and girls and other human rights violations committed. Following the collection of a large number of testimonies, including from over 200 alleged rape survivors, 12 senior FARDC officers were suspended and 11 FARDC suspects arrested in relation to the violations committed. The investigations are ongoing.

Sexual violence

49. As of 30 April, MONUSCO recorded cases of sexual violence involving at least 320 women, including 129 girls, which were allegedly committed by armed groups and national security forces, mostly in eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo. Incidents involving FARDC elements occurred predominantly during troop movements or operations against armed groups in the Kivus.

50. According to UNICEF, medical and psychosocial assistance was provided to 7,556 persons, including 3,358 children during the reporting period within the framework of assistance to survivors of sexual violence.

51. My Special Representative for Sexual Violence in Conflict, Zainab Hawa Bangura, visited the Democratic Republic of the Congo from 20 to 30 March, and held meetings with President Kabila and Prime Minister Matata Ponyo as well as a wide range of other stakeholders in Kinshasa, North Kivu, South Kivu and Orientale province. Her mission culminated in a Joint Communiqué between the Government and the United Nations on measures to address sexual violence in the Democratic Republic of the Congo.

Children and armed conflict

52. During the period under review, the Monitoring and Reporting Mechanism on grave violations against children (MRM), co-led by MONUSCO and UNICEF, documented the cases of 94 Congolese children (34 girls and 60 boys) who were recruited by armed groups between 1 February and 24 May, 28 of them were under the age of 15. Most of the children were used as porters, cooks, fighters and sex slaves. The MRM also documented the cases of 485 children (85 girls and 373 boys) who escaped or were separated from armed forces and groups. These cases included 26 boys associated with the M23, eight of whom were Rwandans. The MRM also documented the cases of 33 children who were killed or maimed as a direct result of conflict-related violence during the reporting period.

53. The United Nations Country Task Force on Children and Armed Conflict secured the release and the separation of 150 children from Mayi-Mayi Kata-Katanga, Mayi-Mayi Shetani and Mayi-Mayi Nyatura. Also, as a result of increased advocacy and collaboration with the Government, 96 children formerly associated with armed groups were released from detention facilities belonging to the FARDC or other security services. Five boys were separated during the screening of new FARDC recruits.

54. MONUSCO trained over 2,200 PNC and FARDC members in child protection measures and child rights. Regarding the implementation of the joint Government/United Nations Action Plan, two directives were signed by the Administrator General of the National Intelligence Agency, Kalev Mutondo and the Minister of Defence, Luba Ntambo on 3 May and 7 May, respectively. These directives, inter alia, criminalize the recruitment of children and authorize the release of children detained for their association with armed groups to the relevant State institutions and/or the United Nations.

Extraction and trade of natural resources

55. MONUSCO continued to support the joint validation exercises for mining sites in the Kivus and Maniema in anticipation of the establishment of Government-authorized "sales centres" around such sites. The Mission also supported the conduct of security assessments of the sites by the Government of the Democratic Republic of the Congo.

Stabilization and peace consolidation progress

56. The strategic review of the International Security and Stabilization Support Strategy (ISSSS) was finalized in June following consultations between the Government of the Democratic Republic of the Congo and all ISSSS partners, including MONUSCO. This new approach articulates stabilization activities on the basis of area-specific needs, identified locally through an inclusive dialogue among communities and between these communities and State authorities. Consultations were also held with the Government to ensure the progressive alignment of the revised ISSSS with the STAREC, and to agree on a common way forward and a timeframe for implementation. A mapping is being prepared to identify funding gaps for the ISSSS and the STAREC.

57. The second round of national consultations for the Post-2015 United Nations Development Agenda was carried out from 21 March to 30 April, involving representatives from government, civil society, and international partners to agree on concrete strategic objectives. These consultations provided an opportunity to discuss the draft Fragility Matrix for the New Deal for Engagement in Fragile States programme with stakeholders at the provincial level. To follow up on the consultations, a national seminar co-chaired by my Deputy Special Representative, Humanitarian Coordinator and Resident Coordinator and the Prime Minister took place from 27 to 28 May.

Mission reconfiguration and roadmap for the transfer of responsibilities

58. In March, MONUSCO and Government representatives conducted joint assessments of security conditions in eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo. The security and humanitarian situation and progress in the extension of State authority were assessed in 31 territories throughout Orientale, North Kivu, South Kivu, Maniema and Katanga provinces. Field visits were undertaken to gather information, except in the areas of North Kivu under the control of M23. The assessment teams concluded that MONUSCO's deployment, as adjusted throughout the reporting period, with a concentration of resources in the eastern part of the country, was appropriate to the situation on the ground.

59. Following the adoption of resolution 2098 (2013), MONUSCO focused on revising its Mission Concept, commenced implementation of the revised Force Concept of Operations and trained its contingents on the revised Rules of Engagement.

60. As requested under resolution 2098 (2013), the annex attached to the present report presents the current division of labour between MONUSCO and the United Nations Country Team in key areas of the Mission's mandate. The Mission and the United Nations Country Team began discussing the requirements for transferring responsibilities related to demining and technical support to the electoral process as soon as feasible. Some challenges were identified in that regard. The operations of the Intervention Brigade will undoubtedly increase requests for UNMAS' intervention to clear items of unexploded ordnance left over from military operations. The United Nations will be left with no capacity to respond to explosive contamination from fighting, hampering its ability to operate safely and increasing the possibility that both civilians and United Nations personnel will be killed or injured by United Nations unexploded weapons. At present, both the national authorities and the United Nations Country Team lack the capacity, in particular the technical expertise, to carry out demining activities. Moreover, there is no indication that extra- budgetary funding will be readily available.

61. Concerning technical support to the electoral process, with the establishment of the restructured Independent National Electoral Commission (INEC) on 7 June, the electoral process can now resume. The temporary closing on 31 March of the United Nations Development Programme's (UNDP) project to support the electoral cycle leaves MONUSCO's electoral assistance division as the main source of international support to the new INEC.

62. The United Nations system, at Headquarters and in the field, is working on developing a detailed roadmap for transferring some responsibilities from the Mission to the United Nations Country Team, the Government or other partners. The roadmap will build on the attached matrix and highlight political implications, funding gaps and the most feasible timelines. It will be based on the principle of promoting national ownership and ensuring that the planning process for the transfer of tasks is aligned with the Government's development strategies and national budget processes. The roadmap will also be designed in a manner to maximize the collective contributions and impact of the United Nations Country Team. I will present this roadmap to the Council in my report in September.

IV. Progress on implementation of national commitments under the Peace, Security and Cooperation Framework Agreement for the Democratic Republic of the Congo and the Region

National oversight mechanism

63. Throughout the period under review, my Special Representative maintained on-going discussions with representatives of the Government of the Democratic Republic of the Congo at all levels to encourage a timely and effective follow-up to national commitments made under the PSC Framework, including the establishment of a national oversight mechanism. These exchanges continued during the visit of Special Envoy Mary Robinson to Kinshasa, who, together with my Special Representative, met on 29 April with President Kabila and Prime Minister Matata Ponyo, as well as civil society leaders.

64. On 7 and 8 May, Minister of Foreign Affairs Raymond Tshibanda appeared before the National Assembly to answer questions related to the PSC Framework. The debate touched on the objectives of the PSC Framework, its constitutional conformity, the reasons why the M23 had not been mentioned in the PSC Framework, as well as the supposed lack of consultation with Parliament prior to its signing. Members of the National Assembly, from the majority and the opposition, criticized the "inequities" of the PSC Framework, claiming that it spelled out specific obligations for the Government of the Democratic Republic of the Congo, but was vague regarding those of other signatories.

65. On 13 May, the Council of Ministers adopted the presidential ordinance establishing the national oversight mechanism, as called for by the PSC Framework. Signed by the President and the Prime Minister, the ordinance establishes a three-tiered mechanism for implementing, monitoring and reporting on the national commitments under the PSC Framework, for a period of one year, which can be renewed. At the policy and decision-making level, a Steering Committee is chaired by President Kabila, with Prime Minister Matata Ponyo and six ministers, representing the Government. The second level is the Executive Committee, which will focus on implementing and monitoring progress in the six reform areas outlined in the PSC Framework. Thirdly, a Consultative Committee, presided over by President Kabila, will serve as a vehicle for dialogue and exchange of views with various sectors of Congolese society. The mechanism is expected to maintain a regular dialogue with all partners on support for the PSC Framework's implementation. On 21 May, another presidential ordinance was signed, appointing François Muamba as the Coordinator of the Executive Committee, along with two assistant coordinators. A former Minister and member of the National Assembly, Mr. Muamba has also been a member of the Government's delegation to the Kampala talks.

Consolidation of State authority

Decentralization

68. There were some advances in establishing the legal framework for the decentralization process and related issues on public finances. However, much remains to be done. The development of an agreed national implementation timetable and improved inter-governmental coordination will be critical to move the process forward. Also, the transfer of a number of competencies and resources to provincial and local administrations is still pending, and involves a number of highly sensitive political issues.

69. The third Conference of Provincial Governors, presided over by President Kabila, was held from 18 to 19 March, in Kananga, Kasai occidental. The conference recommended that the Government accelerate the decentralization process and take steps to organize provincial and local elections as soon as possible. The conference also acknowledged efforts by central authorities to ensure the regular retrocession of revenues to provincial governments.

70. On 29 March, an agreement was signed between the central and provincial governments establishing modalities for the transfer of investment credits allocated under the national budget to provincial governments for sectors under their exclusive administration, such as health, education, and infrastructure.

71. On 30 April, the Senate adopted a series of laws on fiscal reforms, including some related to decentralization. Other laws related to decentralization are pending before the National Assembly, namely, the draft organic law establishing the boundaries of the future 25 sub-divided provinces and the city of Kinshasa and the draft organic law on the functioning of the Caisse de péréquation, a mechanism for redistributing revenues among provincial governments.

Economic development

72. Relative macro-economic stability was preserved during the reporting period, with low inflation rates and a projected economic growth rate of 8.2 per cent according to the International Monetary Fund (IMF). Translating this growth into progress in reducing extreme poverty remains a challenge. During the period under review, 71 per cent of the Congolese population was still living on less than USD 1.25 per day, access to basic services remained limited, the level of social security was low, and two-thirds of the labour force, mainly the youth, continued to be unemployed. Reviewing economic and social indicators, the UNDP 2013 Human Development Report ranked the Democratic Republic of Congo 186th out of 186 countries assessed. However, with the joint efforts of the Government and international partners, measures are being taken to reduce the prevalence of underweight children and maternal deaths at childbirth and to increase life expectancy at birth.

Government pledged to produce information on measures to improve governance. On 7 May, Martin Kabwelulu, Minister of Mines, and Albert Yuma, Chairman of the State-owned Gécamines, signed an affidavit releasing details of a 2011 deal transferring part of a Gécamines copper and cobalt project to a private Israeli company. This opened the way for the IMF to begin negotiations on a new loan programme. Also, new policies have focused on increasing the mobilization of State revenues, improving management of State revenues and expanding the payment through automatic bank deposit of the salaries of civil servants, as well as army and police personnel, in order to reduce the risks of embezzlement. 75. During the reporting period, National Assembly Speaker Aubin Minaku, in his capacity as Executive Secretary of the presidential majority coalition, concluded consultations with a wide range of Congolese stakeholders on the holding of a national dialogue as proposed by President Kabila in his New Year's address. In parallel to the President's initiative, opposition parties and civil society organizations held consultations on the organisation of a "National Forum on the Crisis in the Democratic Republic of the Congo," reaching out to the presidential majority to try to build a broad consensus on the terms of reference for a national dialogue. Discussions are still underway.

77. In Equateur, preparations for the election of a new Governor proceeded following President Kabila's decision of 13 March to dismiss Governor Baende due to the persistent institutional crisis in the province. On 7 and 10 June, the elections took place, with Louis Alphonse Koyajialo and Impeto Pengo Sébastien from the ruling presidential majority coalition elected Governor and Vice-Governor, respectively.

V. Observations

78. The signing of the PSC Framework in Addis Ababa on 24 February has brought renewed hope that security and stability can be restored in eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo and the Great Lakes region. I welcome the steps already taken by the Government of the Democratic Republic of the Congo to fulfil its commitments under the PSC Framework, including the establishment of a national oversight mechanism, chaired by President Kabila himself. I also welcome the advances made in the areas of decentralization, reform of the security and justice sectors, reform of the INEC, particularly with a view to preparing the provincial and local elections. I am encouraged by the progress made towards the organization of a national dialogue, which should build consensus among a wide range of Congolese actors on how best to advance critical reforms and policies.

80. It must be recognized that advancing these reforms will be a complex process, fraught with political, financial and security challenges. I am concerned, in this regard, about the increasingly difficult political environment that has developed in the Democratic Republic of the Congo. Key institutions such as the Parliament and political coalitions appear to be increasingly fragmented. Political posturing and in-fighting are undermining cohesion and consensus-building, even within the presidential majority coalition. This clearly complicates the building of the necessary constituencies to support important and often sensitive reforms, especially the Government's efforts to consolidate State authority. While the initial steps taken by the Government to implement the PSC Framework are commendable, a significant and sustained effort on its part would be required to achieve the expected results. I therefore call on the Government to redouble its reform efforts and urge all concerned Congolese actors to rise above their personal ambitions, overcome their divisions and find ways to work together to advance these complex reforms, which are essential for peace, security and development.

81. Significant and sustained engagement and support from the international community will clearly be essential to the success of this approach, in particular to help resolve complex problems and identify the resources necessary to achieve our common objectives. The United Nations stands ready to do its part, in particular by helping to coordinate assistance and maintain the momentum achieved so far. My Special Representative for the Democratic Republic of the Congo, in consultation with my Special Envoy for the Great Lakes region, will continue to actively support the implementation of the national commitments under the PSC Framework. I also urge all partners to provide the necessary political support and the significant financial assistance required to achieve these goals. I welcome, in this regard, the engagement of the World Bank in support of the PSC Framework.

82. In spite of these advances, the security situation throughout the eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo remains deeply troubling. Significant security threats persist, not only in the Kivus, but also in Katanga, Orientale province and parts of Maniema. The situation in North Kivu remains fragile, in particular due to the continuing M23 rebellion, which puts civilians at serious risk, represents the most significant challenge to State authority and undermines efforts to stabilize this area. I have urged both the M23 and the Government of the Democratic Republic of the Congo to resume talks in Kampala under the auspices of President Museveni. Any agreement reached through these talks should contribute to a durable resolution of the conflict. The evolving security situation in Equateur province also warrants close monitoring.

83. In this overall context, grave human rights violations, including abductions, rapes, ethnically targeted attacks on civilians and recruitment of children into armed groups and national security forces, continue to be committed in conflict-affected areas of the Democratic Republic of the Congo. These violations must stop. There have been some encouraging developments related to the prosecution of suspects by the Congolese authorities, including members of the military and former members of armed groups, accused of committing serious

84. Addressing the causes and consequences of the recurring violence in eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo will continue to require a comprehensive approach, the elements of which were presented in my Special Report on the Democratic Republic of the Congo and the Great Lakes region (S/2013/119) and endorsed by the Security Council in its resolution 2098 (2013). The deployment of an Intervention Brigade within MONUSCO represents one of these elements. Significant efforts have been made by the United Nations to ensure its swift deployment, and I wish to reiterate my profound appreciation to the countries that contribute troops to the Intervention Brigade for their collaboration. The Intervention Brigade has not yet undertaken the operations envisaged in resolution 2098 (2013) against armed groups in eastern DRC but its impact is already being felt. A number of defections and surrenders among members of armed groups may have been influenced by its deterrent effect. Careful preparations are underway to ensure that the operations of the Intervention Brigade, when launched, ultimately contribute to the broader protection of civilians mandate of the Mission and to the creation of an environment conducive to the extension of State authority in areas currently under the control of armed groups. The Protection of civilians remains at the core of military planning, which is based on International Humanitarian Law Principles of distinction proportionality, and caution so that incidental loss of civilian life, injury to civilians and damage to civilian objects is avoided. Further training will be provided once these contingents are fully deployed. There are nevertheless very high expectations being placed on MONUSCO, in terms of pacifying eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo and neutralizing the threat posed by armed groups. It is, however, critical for all actors to understand that the effectiveness of the Intervention Brigade can only be conceived as part of the broader political approach. It cannot be a substitute for the national security forces of the Democratic Republic of the Congo, or the pursuit of a coherent strategy to tackle the root causes of the conflict.
