Dear Mr. Secretary-General:

ACTION JA

COPY RA (email)

Last month Dr. Richard Locke, director of the Watson Institute of International Affairs, invited you to be a speaker at Brown University. The event, to take place in April or May 2014, will be featured in the institute's Distinguished Speaker Series, and is intended to coincide with the Brown of Journal of World Affairs' 20th anniversary as well as the university's 250th anniversary celebration.

I am following up on Dr. Locke's invitation, and would like to express the enthusiasm of the Journal and our staff to host you this spring. Your distinguished career in diplomatic service and your contributions to international relations will be of great interest to our audience. Our audience will include not only faculty and students from the Watson Institute, but from the Brown University community at large.

We are anxiously awaiting your response, as we would be honored to host you and to share your invaluable insights with an audience at Brown University. We sincerely hope that you will accept our invitation to join us this spring. If neither April nor May is convenient for you, we can try to accommodate your schedule for another time in the year.
