Dear Alex,

We consulted DESA colleagues and also with SE4A (though we haven't heard from the secretariat yet). Our feedback can be summarized as follows:

This is an important conference on the global calendar of energy events. In previous years WFES has seen participation at HoS/G level. The SG spoke at the 2012 summit.

The 2013 event will also include water, which is timely, as 2013 will be proclaimed the UN International Year of Water Cooperation.

If there is no other senior official to attend WFES on behalf of the SG, DESA would like to recommend that USG Wu Hongbo attend and deliver the Secretary-General's message.

Should this be the decision of EOSG, we'll follow up with a draft reply to the invitation letter, as well as a draft message.

Best, Juwang

Dear Juwang,

The Secretary-General will not be able to attend the above mentioned event (invitation attached for ease of reference). We would be grateful if DESA can coordinate with relevant colleagues and provide final recommended advice on the following:

- (1) Whether this event merits the need of representation (i.e. if so, kindly provide the name and confirmed availability of the senior level official who would be available to attend on SG's behalf)
- (2) Draft response to the Minister of Foreign Affairs of UAE for the review and signature of the Secretary-General
- (3) Whether the SG should send a message to the event

Most grateful to receive the above by 12 noon Tuesday, 11 December 2012

Thank you,

Alexandra

Dear Secretary General,

It was a pleasure meeting you in New York this past September during the UN General Assembly. I would also like to extend my appreciation for affording me the opportunity to serve on your High-level Panel on Global Sustainability (GSP). The recommendations made by the group will hopefully help shape a framework for cooperation and encourage sustainable development. As the GSP report highlighted, sustainable development must be an essential component in every country's drive for lasting competitiveness.

Building upon our heritage and legacy, the United Arab Emirates has taken a leadership role in addressing the challenges of climate change and energy security. In recent years, we have focused much of our attention on developing clean energy solutions, both domestically and internationally, with the ambition to continue our leadership in the energy sector. In the past we were solely an exporter of fossil fuels, yet today we proudly export renewable energy solutions. Our efforts in this field are led by Masdar—Abu Dhabi's multi-faceted clean energy company, which has actively invested in promising technologies and deployed large scale projects across the globe.

In addition, as the host country of the International Renewable Energy Agency (IRENA), the UAE has been actively involved in facilitating cross-border dialogue with a number of international platforms designed to advance co-operation. One of these initiatives is the World Future Energy Summit (WFES) which you have graciously participated in.

Hosted by Masdar, the Summit has established itself as the world's foremost annual gathering in the renewable energy and sustainable technologies industry.

Furthermore, with water becoming a growing concern, not just for the region but the world as a whole, the UAE has decided to place the issue high on its agenda and identify ways it can promote technology advancement and water security. As part of this commitment, the International Water Summit was announced to take place for the first time in January 2013, in conjunction with the World Future Energy Summit. The link between water and energy will be a central theme of both events.

In your role as the leader of the United Nations, you have been consistently involved in assessing the world's best route to a sustainable future. I commend you for the Sustainable Energy for All initiative and for convening the High-level Panel on Global Sustainability. In addition, your recent calls for action to address the climate change impacts on food and water security are laudable and have been well received by the global community.

In this light, I would be delighted to invite once again you to participate as a keynote speaker at the Common Opening Ceremony of the 6th World Future Energy Summit and 1st International Water Summit, taking place on January 15th 2013 in Abu Dhabi, United Arab Emirates. The World Future Energy Summit and the International Water Summit take place concurrently at the Abu Dhabi National Exhibition Centre.

We would also be delighted if you graced us with your presence at the Zayed Future Energy Prize Award Ceremony, taking place on the evening of the 15th January 2013, another tangible commitment from Abu Dhabi in the sphere of renewable energy and sustainability. The $4 million prize was created to honour the legacy of the late Founding Father and President of the United Arab Emirates, His Highness Sheikh Zayed bin Sultan Al Nahyan, and aims to inspire the next generation of global energy innovators to create solutions for the future.

It would be my pleasure to welcome you as my guest.

Please accept, Excellency, the renewed assurances of my highest consideration.
