Dear Deputy Secretary-General Eliasson,

✓ On behalf of the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum, I would like to invite you to participate in an event on early warning for mass atrocities to be held in New York in October 2015.

The Holocaust Museum is preparing to formally launch its Early Warning Project, which provides an opportunity to convene experts from the policy community to examine ways in which information about potential atrocities can shape decision-making today. We will partner with the International Peace Institute to host an event that will feature a high-level discussion on the opportunities created by early warning systems, and the challenges the United Nations and governments face when incorporating early warning into their atrocity prevention work. The event may take place from 1-2:45pm on October 7, 8, 27, or 28, depending on your availability.

✓ We would be honored if you would join the discussion. Please let me know if I can provide additional information about the event or the Museum's Early Warning Project. I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Cameron Hudson

Subject: Invitation to Early Warning Event from US Holocaust Memorial Museum

Dear Deputy Secretary-General Eliasson,

On behalf of the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum, I would like to invite you to participate in an event on early warning for mass atrocities to be held in New York in October 2015. We will partner with the International Peace Institute to host a high-level discussion on the importance of early warning systems and how they can be a part of the atrocity prevention architecture within international, regional, and national bodies. The Holocaust Museum is preparing to formally launch its Early Warning Project, which provides an opportunity to convene experts from the policy community for this timely discussion.

We would be honored if you would join the discussion; see attached letter for more details. Please let me know if I can provide additional information about the event or the Museum's Early Warning Project. I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Cameron
