

SAMCHOK CEMENT PLANT

2756

Basic to virtually all industrial reconstruction and expansion in Korea is an adequate supply of cement. As a result of a $631,000 UNKRA project, the war-damaged Samchok plant has been rehabilitated and production increased to 80,000 metric tons.

This photograph depicts a British engineer employed by UNKRA giving technical assistance in the machine repair shop. With his help, much of the damaged equipment at Samchok cement plant has been put back into operation.
