Note to Mr. Akasaka

Re: Wider distribution of the pamphlet
"My priorities as United Nations Secretary-General"

The Secretary-General has read your note dated 24 September 2007 regarding the pamphlet on his priorities as Secretary-General. He wishes to convey his thanks for taking this initiative and appreciates your efforts in ensuring a wide distribution of the pamphlet.

As you know, DPI last week finalised and produced the pamphlet, My Priorities as United Nations Secretary-General, for your use this week with visiting dignitaries.

I am pleased to inform you that we will now proceed to produce the pamphlet in the remaining UN official languages, and disseminate it worldwide, well in advance of the 24 October observance of UN Day.

An on-line version will soon be posted on the Secretary-General's web page on the UN website. Once on line, the pamphlet will be available to the world at large.

We are also asking our UN information centres to develop local language versions of the pamphlet for the widest possible distribution in the countries where they are located.

Copies will also be distributed to UN Country Teams, UN peacekeeping operations and UN system organizations.

The pamphlet will also be made available to all UN staff via our intranet, iSeek.

Thank you.
