It has been a great pleasure to meet you here in Bologna and talk to you about the problems of peace and development in Africa, which are of significant size but not insurmountable. And that, in any case are a common priority in our life.

I strongly believe that these conferences play a fundamental role in understanding the current roots of instability, in devising possible solutions and in developing a common position on these issues.

Thanks for what you have been doing so far and thanks for what you will continue to do in the future. I really hope to have the chance to meet you soon.

Yours sincerely,

Con molte amicizie
Romano Prodi
