RE: Invitation to speak, Kapuscinski development lecture in Paris -- Fall 2014

Paris, the 2nd of June 2014

Dear Mr. Eliasson,

It is my honor to invite you to speak at Sciences Po in Paris to deliver a Kapuscinski Lecture in the fall of 2014. The Kapuscinski Lecture Series is a program managed by the UNDP and funded by the European Commission in order to promote the discussion of development issues in European countries.

Sciences Po is a partner of the lecture series and we would be proud to welcome you as our second speaker following after a very well received lecture by Angel Gurría of the OECD who spoke last year about tackling inequalities.

Sciences Po, and particularly the Master of Public Affairs which I lead, educates young students professionals from all over the world who seek to have an impact on problems of global significance. Our students will go on to assume leadership roles in the public, non-profit and private sectors, both in the national and the international realms. Very simply put, we train students to engage in the kind of work that you have embodied in your own career as a diplomat, a minister and as Vice-Secretary General.

If you were to accept this invitation, the content of your address would be, of course, solely yours to decide. Our students and the greater Sciences Po community would benefit greatly from hearing you speak about your vision for development aid coordination and governance.

We would like to organize this conference in the fall of 2014, depending on your availability, for an audience of 400 approximately. The Kapuscinski lectures are also livestreamed.

On behalf of Sciences Po and the students of the MPA, I wish to thank you for considering our invitation. I do hope we will have the honor of your presence.

Sincerely,

Sean Safford
Professor of Economic Sociology
Director, Master of Public Affairs
